No. 75.—

In exercise of the powers conferred by clauses (k) of sub-section (1) of section 6 of the Indian Ports Act, 1908 (XV of 1908) and in supersession of all previous rules on the subject, the Governor in Council is hereby pleased to make the following rules for licensing and regulating conservancy plying for hire and fees and cargo, passenger and other boats plying, whether for hire or not, and whether regularly or only occasionally, in or partly within and partly without any minor port in the Presidency of Madras and for licensing and regulating the crews of any such vessels and for determining the quantity of cargo or number of passengers or of the crew to be carried by any such vessels :—

RULES.

Part I—General Rules.

Short title and application. 1. (1) These rules may be called the Madras Minor Ports Harbour Craft Rules, 1933.

(2) They shall apply to all minor ports in the Presidency of Madras (that is to say to all ports not declared major ports in pursuance of item 2 of Part I of List I to the Devolution Rules).

Saving. Nothing contained in these rules shall apply to any craft coming from any system of Inland Navigation into any part to which these rules apply.

Definitions. 2. In these rules, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context—

(a) "harbour craft" means a Catamaran plying for hire and lists and cargo, passenger and other boats of other propelled by sail or mechanical power and plying, whether for hire or not, and whether regularly or only occasionally; and

(b) "tindal" includes any person in charge of a harbour craft.

Harbour craft plying within a port to be licensed. 4. No person shall, whether as owner or as servant, use any harbour craft to carry goods or passengers to or from any ship or vessel at any port or from place to place within the limits of any port unless such person holds a licence in the Form in Appendix "A" granted by the registering officer specified in Appendix "B" and unless the harbour craft so used has been registered. For purposes of registration the owner of a harbour craft shall cause it to be brought to such place as the registering officer may appoint.

Nothing in this rule shall apply to boats forming part of the equipment of a ship or steamer or harbour craft maintained solely for purposes of pleasure, but the registering officer may, if he thinks fit, withdraw this exemption from any such harbour craft.

Minor or female owners. 5. If the owner of a harbour craft is a minor, the licence may be obtained by the guardian of the minor. If the owner is a woman, who according to the custom of the country does not appear in public, the licence may be obtained on her behalf by her duly authorised agent. In such cases the guardian or the agent shall be deemed to be the owner for the purposes of these rules.

Licence to be produced when demanded. 6. The owner of every registered harbour craft shall keep its licence in the possession of the tindal who shall produce the licence whenever called upon to do so by the registering officer or by any person duly authorised by him in that behalf.

A printed copy of these rules and any written directions issued by the registering officer for carrying the same into effect shall also be furnished by the owner to the tindal who shall, on demand, show it to any consignor or passenger by such harbour craft. The owner shall be responsible for securing that the tindal understands the said rules and directions, shall obtain a declaration from him to that effect and shall produce such declaration, whenever required by the registering officer.

Distinctive numbering of harbour craft. 7. Every owner of a registered harbour craft, other than a catamaran used exclusively for fishing, shall paint or cause to be painted upon a black ground, in white English figures, not less than 6 inches in length, on a conspicuous part of the bow of such harbour craft on one side and of the quarter on the other the number of the harbour craft as mentioned in the licence. No person shall paint or cause to be painted upon any harbour craft not duly registered any such number as aforesaid or any other mark likely to induce the belief that such harbour craft has been registered.

Change of ownership or control of registered harbour craft. 8. No registered harbour craft—

(a) which has changed ownership, or

(b) which has been mortgaged by the owner or otherwise passed from his control shall ply, in case (a) without obtaining a fresh licence and in case (b) without its licence being endorsed by the registering officer within six days after the change of ownership or control.

Changes in size or carrying capacity of harbour craft to be reported. 9. Whenever the tindal of any registered harbour craft is changed or any alteration in such craft is made so as to affect any of the particulars contained in the licence granted for it, such change or alteration shall be forthwith reported by its owner to the registering officer. In case of change of tindal or of any alteration in the harbour craft not affecting its carrying capacity, the harbour craft shall not ply until such report is made and in case of change of tindal until the tindal has also been produced before the registering officer. On such report or on such report and production as the case may be, the registering officer shall amend the original licence held by the owner and in case of change of tindal, also the register kept under rule 10.

In case of any alteration in the harbour craft affecting its carrying capacity the original licence held by the owner shall be cancelled and a fresh licence issued by the registering officer after the craft has been remeasured, and the harbour craft shall not ply until such fresh licence has been issued :

Provided that if any harbour craft was away from the port at the time when such change or alteration takes place, the change or alteration shall be reported to the registering officer immediately on its return to the port.

Registration of harbour craft and tindals.

10. At the time of registration of any harbour craft under rule 4 the name of its tindal as entered at the harbour and other particulars relating to him shall be entered in a book which shall be kept by the registering officer for the purpose in the form in Appendix "C". Every year in the month of January or in the case of ports on the West Coast in the month of September, on a date to be fixed by the registering officer, the owner of every registered harbour craft shall produce before the registering officer the tindal of such harbour craft with a view to the correctness of the entries in the register being verified by the registering officer:

(G.O. No. 2071 L).

No. 408.—The drafts of the rules for the regulation of water from the Mettur Reservoir, at the head sluices of the Grand Anicut Canal, at the Cauvery-Vennar Regulators, and at certain other regulators across the Cauvery and the Vennar below the Cauvery Vennar Regulators, together with explanatory notes, are published. Representations, if any, from the public interested, should be submitted to the Chief Engineer for Irrigation not later than the 15th January 1934. The rules are finally amended on a consideration of any representations received and will be published, before the 1st April 1934 and will continue in force until revised as a result of experience of their working or for other reasons ; in particular, they will be revised if and when the Mettur Hydro-Electric Scheme comes into operation.

DRAFT RULES.

RULES FOR THE REGULATION OF SUPPLY FOR IRRIGATION FROM METTUR RESERVOIR.

1. Regulation of supply from the reservoir shall be in charge of the Superintendent of Works, Mettur Project until that post is abolished. The question of the control of this regulation thereafter will be settled later on.

2. The Cauvery and the Vennar Regulators and the Grand Anicut Canal head sluices shall be opened for irrigation on the 16th of June. If, however, the effective storage in the reservoir is considered adequate, the Superintending Engineer may, after previous notification in the District Gazette, advance the date of opening to any date not earlier than the 1st of June.

[Note.—The requirement for the double crop area is 18,500 cusecs with about 34,500 million cubic feet for one month. The date of opening may be advanced to the 1st of June when this supply can be ensured at the end of May.]

3. The discharges at the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut canal at 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. every day shall be telephoned by the Supervisor at Grand Anicut to the Superintendent of Works at Mettur. The Water Registar at Kodiveri shall telephone similar information regarding the discharge over the Kodiveri anicut.

4. The Executive Engineers of the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal divisions shall intimate to the Superintendent of Works, Mettur, and the Supervisor at Grand Anicut by telephone whenever supply should be reduced below what is provided in these rules.

The Executive Engineers shall not ask for, and the Superintendent of Works shall not issue from the reservoir, any supply in excess of what is provided in these rules.

5. The Superintendent of Works at Mettur shall regulate issues from the reservoir so as to make good any deficiency or retrench any excess observed at the Grand Anicut, taking also into account any short issues asked for by the Executive Engineers and the rise or fall in level at the Kodiveri Anicut.

6. The demands of the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal are as shown in the following table :—

Period.	Cauvery.	Vennar	Grand Anicut Canal.	Total.
June 2nd-half	3,730	3,970	1,800	9,500
July 1st-half	3,730	3,970	1,800	9,500
Do. 2nd half	10,380	9,982	3,000	23,131
August 1st half	9,040	8,518	3,000	21,558
Do 2nd half	9,155	8,028	3,000	20,016
September 1st-half	9,185	8,025	3,000	20,010
Do. 2nd-half	8,152	7,245	2,000	18,000
October 1st half		13,500	2,000	14,000
Do 2nd half		13,500	3,033	16,033
From November 1st to January 31st	Supply required will depend on the state of the North-East Monsoon rainfall and should be fixed by the Superintending Engineer according to actual requirements.

7. If the reservoir should fall so low as to cause apprehension of shortage of supply for standing crops, issue from the reservoir shall be restricted and the distribution of supply regulated by the Superintending Engineer in consultation with the Collector of Tanjore.

8. From 6 p.m. on the 29th of January to 6 p.m. on the 12th of June the natural flow of the river shall not be impounded but shall be allowed to pass down the river. Should however freshes come down the river during this period such portion of them as is directed by the Superintending Engineer may be impounded.

9. The details of the regulation shall promptly be recorded in the approved form of register maintained for that purpose.

10. When the opening of the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal is advanced to a date earlier than the 16th of June, all the dates in these rules shall be suitably advanced.

11. Regulation during floods.—(a) When the inflow exceeds the quantity required to make up the deficit at the upper anicut, irrigation shall begin by closing the irrigation sluices gradually and shall go on till the water level reaches + 777 (the height of the level required to discharge 50,000 cusecs with irrigation sluices closed and surplus sluices shutters clear). Thereafter the irrigation sluices shall be completely closed and the surplus gates shall be regulated to maintain that level until the inflow as intimated from Sivasamudram rises to, and continues to exceed, the capacity of the surplus waters with the water level in lake at + 777. Then the gates shall be lifted clear until such time as water level falls again to + 777 when the gates shall again be regulated to maintain the level

(b) If the flood anticipated should exceed 200,000 cusecs, the high level sluices shall be opened immediately to discharge 25,000 cusecs, and all surplus gates shall be raised clear. If the inflow should fall to 100,000 cusecs, the discharges through the high level sluices shall be reduced and the sluices shall be closed when the water level in the reservoir again reaches + 777.

NOTE.—If, for any reason, none of the surplus gates have to be kept closed, the high level sluices shall be kept open for proportionately longer periods.

(c) From the 1st of September when high floods need no longer be anticipated the lake level shall be allowed to rise to plus 795 and be maintained as long as conditions permit at that level by regulation of surplus gates only, all other sluices except hydro-electric pipes, if in use for power purposes) being closed till the water level should fall to the level at which irrigation requirements could be supplied through surplus sluices. Thereafter regulation of high level sluices shall be effected to make up the required outflow. Only when water level in the lake falls below + 795 shall the low level sluices come into operation

Explanatory Notes to accompany the rules for the regulation of supply for irrigation from Mettur reservoir.

1. The Mettur reservoir has to supply the requirements of (1) the Lower Coleroon Anicut system, (2) the Cauvery system (3) the Vennar system and (4) the Grand Anicut Canal system. The headworks of the Lower Coleroon Anicut system are 40 miles below the head works of the other three In order to simplify regulation from Mettur, the requirements of the Lower Coleroon Anicut system will first be passed into the Coleroon at the Grand Anicut. What is left will be available for distribution to the Cauvery, Vennar and Grand Anicut canal and the regulation from Mettur will be confined to making good any observed deficiency or retrenching observed excess in the Cauvery, Vennar and Grand Anicut canal This will ensure supply to all the four systems to meet their day to day requirements. The provision for regulating supply to the Lower Anicut system has, for these reasons, been incorporated in the rules of regulation at the Grand Anicut; and consequently no mention of the Lower Anicut is made in the rules for the regulation of supply from the Mettur reservoir.

2. The table incorporated in rule 5 provides for the full requirements of the system of the Grand Anicut Canal. Though full supply will not be required in the earlier years of the development of irrigation under the Grand Anicut canal and the Vennar system, the Executive Engineer, Grand Anicut canal division, will allow a liberal supply to encourage extension of irrigation and, subject to this proviso, take action under rule 4.

3. Reference has been made in the rules to the possible freshes in the river during summer months as there have been such freshes in the past as would have interfered with channel works and have also been in excess of the requirements. On such occasions the excess supply may be impounded.

4. In the rules, the irrigation season has been fixed as 16th of June to 31st of January. In most years it will be possible to advance the season to commence on the 1st of June. It is however considered expedient to fix a later date as the ordinary one in the rules but to anticipate the date in practice according to the condition of supply in the reservoir as such a course will avoid complaints when in any year it is found necessary to delay issue owing to shortage of supply.

5. Rule 11 is new and its object is to minimise the effect of floods. The last sub-clause is not likely to be put into operation except in exceptionally bad years.

Note to accompany the form for the regulation of supply for irrigation from the Mettur reservoir.

The regulation at Mettur will depend on the observed deficiency or excess at the Grand Anicut and the time of transit of water from Mettur to Grand Anicut is therefore an important factor in regulation. The Kodivari anicut is almost at the same distance from Grand Anicut as the Mettur dam. For the purpose of regulation, the time for the transit of water from the Kodivari anicut and from Mettur to the Grand Anicut will be considered to be the same. Observation in June indicates that when the flow in the river is less than 10,000 cusecs which approximately indicates the future supply in the first month after the opening of the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal for irrigation on the 16th of June, the time from Mettur to Grand Anicut is 3½ days. When the flow in the river is 20,000 cusecs, which approximates the supply after the 16th of July, the time is 2 days From the 1st of October to the 31st of October, when the flow is about 12,000 cusecs, the time taken may be considered to be 2½days. Three periods will be adopted tentatively till observations during the next year after the completion of the reservoir become available It has to be noted that the time for transmission considered for the purpose of regulation should, if anything, be only slightly over-estimated.

2. Regulation at Mettur should commence on the 12th of June at 6 p.m. The issue from the reservoir should be adequate to meet the requirements of the intervening six irrigation and to restore the supply at Grand Anicut. This will be fixed tentatively at, Cauvery and Vennar 7,000, Grand Anicut Canal 1,800 irrigation above Grand Anicut 1,200; total 10,000. The supply from Mettur and Kodivari should therefore be 10,000 x 6/3 or say 13,300 cusecs and this quantity less the discharge over the Kodivari anicut should be issued from the Mettur reservoir on the 12th of June at 6 p.m. It is expected that this supply will reach Grand Anicut at 6 a.m. on the 16th of June. From and after 6 a.m. on the 16th of June, the issue from Mettur will be subject to two corrections. The first correction is to make good the deficiency at the Grand Anicut or to retrench to the extent of the excess at the Grand Anicut, and this correction will be applied to the actual issue 3½ days earlier. The second correction will be dependent on the rise or fall of the level of water at the Kodivari anicut. If there is a rise during the previous 3½ days, the issue from Mettur will be correspondingly retrenched and if there has fall the issue from Mettur will be correspondingly increased. This regulation will continue up to 6 a.m. on the 24th of July, when the issue will have to be increased to meet the requirements of the single crop area. The demands including the single crop area during the second half of July are as below :—

Cauvery irrigation ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	10,350	cusecs.
Vennar irrigation ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	3,065	"
Grand Anicut canal irrigation	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	3,686	"
Irrigation above Grand Anicut	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	4,040	"
Lower Anicut irrigation ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	2,230	"
						Total	..	23,371	cusecs or say
								23,400

The issue from Mettur at 6 a.m. on the 14th of July should be increased by 23,400 x 10/9—13,300=12,671 or say 20,000 cusecs. This excess issue must be over and above the actual issue at 6 p.m. on the 12th of July. After the 16th of July the double correction will again be applied to the issue from Mettur but with two days as the time for the transmission of water from Mettur to Grand Anicut.

8. The demands of half monthly periods from and after the 1st of August gradually become less and at the end of every such period the issue from the reservoir should be reduced to suit the reduced demand. In the month of October the demand is in the neighbourhood of 15,000 cusecs and the regulation should be done assuming 2½ days to be the time required for transmission.

9. In all the issues to make up deficiency, 33 1/3 per cent over the observed deficiency at the Grand Anicut should be allowed in the first month and 11 1/9 per cent in the subsequent months. These percentages for transmission losses have been tentatively fixed from the observations of June and July 1933 and will be revised after further observations made in 1934.

5. The register for recording the regulation from the Mettur Reservoir for purpose of regulation will be in the accompanying form

RULES FOR THE REGULATION OF WATER AT THE GRAND ANICUT AND CAUVERY-VENNAR REGULATORS.

N.B.—These rules apply only during the irrigation season, which extends from the 16th June to the 31st January—Regulation during closure is left to the discretion of the local officers of the Public Works Department.

1. The Supervisor at the Lower Anicut shall telephone to the Supervisor at the Grand Anicut every day at 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. from the 15th of June to 31st of January, the discharge observed at the Lower Anicut.

The Supervisor at the Grand Anicut shall on receipt of this information, jot down into the Coleroon, by opening the Grand Anicut shutters such quantity as is necessary to make good the deficiency observed at the Lower Anicut.

The normal requirements at the Lower Anicut are as below :—

	cusecs.
16th of June to 15th of July	140
16th of July to 30th of September	2,230
1st of October to 31st of October	1,500

After the 1st of November, supply required will depend on the north-east monsoon and shall be fixed by the Superintending Engineer according to actual requirements.

The Executive Engineer, South Arcot division, shall inform the Supervisor at the Lower Anicut and the Supervisor at the Grand Anicut when supplies at the Lower Anicut may be reduced below normal and the Supervisor at the Grand Anicut shall take into account such regulations when letting water into the Coleroon for the Lower Anicut.

2. The Cauvery and the Vennar regulators shall be opened for irrigation on the 16th of June and supply regulated between the two rivers for the double crop area in the proportion of 2 : 3. The requirements of the two rivers for the double crop area will for the present be fixed as 3,720 and 2,270 cusecs from the 16th of June to the 15th of July.

3 From the 16th of July, the Grand Anicut Supervisor shall regulate the water so as to distribute the supply between the two rivers as shown in the following table :—

Period.	Discharge in cusecs. Cauvery.	Vennar.	Gauge readings. Cauvery. (a)	Vennar. (a)
July second-half	10,580	6,051
August first-half	9,840	5,915
Do. second-half	9,163	5,824
September first half	9,155	5,015
Do. second-half	8,105	7,045

(a) To be filled in by the Superintending Engineer with reference to the results of the latest gaugings

4. When the supply is in excess of normal requirements a quantity up to 142 cusecs shall be let into the Vennar to fill the Vaduvur tank ; then a quantity up to 807 cusecs shall be let into the Coleroon for filling the Vaccumore tank. Thereafter the excess shall be distributed between the Cauvery, the Vennar, the Lower Anicut and the Grand Anicut canals in such proportion as may be fixed by the Superintending Engineer from time to time subject to their requirements and carrying capacities.

5. Should such excess be due to a temporary rise, due to issue from the reservoir to make up observed shortage, the excess shall be used to the extent necessary to make up such shortage and not for filling tanks.

6. The gauge reading in the Cauvery shall be restricted to 3 feet and that in the Vennar to 5 feet unless otherwise directed by the Executive Engineers.

7. A weekly turn system shall be introduced after the 1st of October. The turn system shall be started on the Thursday following the 1st of October and the supply till the following Sunday shall be given to the Vennar till the morning of the following Sunday. Then weekly turns shall be given to the Cauvery and the Vennar from Sunday morning. Once the turn systems are started they shall continue to the end of the irrigation season. Water in excess of 8,000 cusecs in the river subject to the turn system shall be diverted to the other river.

8. When the opening of the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal is advanced to a date earlier than the 16th of June, all the dates in the above rules shall be correspondingly advanced except the date "20th of June" specified in rule 2 for the issue of normal requirements at the Lower Anicut. In most years it will be possible to advance the date of opening to the 1st of June and the supply of 156 cusecs for the Lower Anicut from the 16th of June shall until the 15th of July, be restored by reducing if necessary the supply to the Cauvery and the Vennar by 80 and 76 cusecs, respectively.

9. Should the Grand Anicut Supervisor notice or receive intimation of heavy rain in the basin of the Vennar, he shall at once lower the rear gauge of the Vennar to 3 feet without waiting for orders.

10 Should he receive a requisition from the Executive Engineer, Cauvery or Vennar, to alter the depths of water on the rear gauges of the Cauvery or the Vennar he shall promptly carry out such requisition so long as the front gauge of the Grand Anicut is below 10·2 feet.

11 Should water rise in front of the regulators, he shall regulate the shutters so as to maintain whatever the Executive Engineers, Cauvery and Vennar, may have asked for and open the Grand Anicut shutters so as to reduce the water in front of the regulators to such depths as will give the necessary head to maintain the proper depths in the two rivers.

12 Should water continue to rise, he shall regulate the shutters according to rule 11 and raise the shutters clear when the level rises to more than 4 feet on the Grand Anicut crest.

13 Should water be held to rise above 10·2 on the front gauge of the Grand Anicut, special orders of the Superintending Engineer shall be obtained regarding the depths to be maintained in the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut canal.

When water is below 10·2 on the Grand Anicut crest, the regulation shall be in accordance with rules 1 to 11 above.

The scouring sluice shall be opened when the front gauge of the Grand Anicut exceeds 5·2 feet after the vents of the Grand Anicut are all closed. But for any other purpose it may be opened at lower levels under such safeguards as may be prescribed by the Superintending Engineer for the frequent movement on of its floors and aprons both in front and rear. When there is any sign of danger due to local scour it shall be immediately closed.

Explanatory Notes to the revised rules of regulation at the Grand Anicut and the Cauvery-Vennar regulators.

N.B.—The season has been fixed as from the 16th of June to the 31st of January as per the regulation at the Mettur reservoir.

Rule 1.—It is proposed to let down into the Coleroon at the Grand Anicut the day to day deficiency observed at the Lower Anicut. The requirements will be 1·6 cusecs from the 16th of June to the 15th of July (for the double crop area) and at fifty duty for the single area from the 16th of July to the 30th of September. If, in any year, the season for the Cauvery the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal be advanced, the commencement of the single crop season under the Lower Anicut system will be correspondingly advanced but the supply of 1·6 cusecs (for the double crop area) will be let down only from the 16th of June. Mettur will cut off freshes and the question of the Veeranam tank has to be specially considered. The tank can hold only a fortnight's supply. It will not be able to depend solely on the freshes in the Bhavani, the Amaravathi and the Noyyal to fill the Veeranam tank. Cutting off the Cauvery freshes will affect it adversely. It is therefore necessary to treat the Veeranam tank as entitled to continuous supply similar to the other ayacuts under the Lower Coleroon Anicut system, owing to the impounding in the Mettur Reservoir, of the freshes in the Cauvery. Whenever there are local freshes giving full supply to Vadavur, the supply due to the Veeranam tank will be cut off at the Grand Anicut. For purposes of rule 1, the discharge will be calculated at 60 duty on the total ayacut of the Lower Coleroon Anicut system. The filling of tanks will be permitted when there is surplus available and the supply from the catchment is sufficient.

This arrangement does not confer on the Veeranam tank any special advantage. It only puts it on a par with the tanks under the Grand Anicut canal.

Transplantation will be over by the 30th of September. From the 1st October to the 31st October, the supply to the Lower Anicut system will be made at seventy duty. After the 1st November the requirements will be very little and it may be left to the Superintending Engineer to fix the supply required after this date with reference to the conditions of rainfall.

Rule 2.—The working tables of the Mettur Project allow 4,250 cusecs for 165,000 acres of double crop in the existing delta. This is made up of 85,000, wanting, and 79,000, proposed. There is a mistake in this: 17,000 out of the 85,000 acres is in Trichinopoly district above Upper Anicut. There will therefore be only an extent of 147,500 acres to be supplied below the Cauvery dam. The supply required is 3,687 cusecs. Similarly, working tables provide for 4,250 cusecs and it has already been accepted that an extra quantity of 10 000 million cubic feet or 4,250 cusecs may be required, or 8,500 on the whole, it is proposed to start with some intermediate discharge say, 7,000 cusecs. For a year or two full transmission losses as provided in project may be allowed. Loss from Mettur will then be (7,000 minus actual discharge) × 3/7.

Rule 3.—Above rule will not strictly apply till 30th of September when transplantation will be over. The discharges have been worked out at the normal duties of 45 and 35/4 for the Cauvery and the Vennar respectively for the single crop area from 16th June to 30th September and, at project report duties, for the double crop area and for the Mettur Project area.

Rule 4.—The project working tables allow 50 per cent. over the normal supply discharges into the delta when additional supplies of water are available from the Bhavani and other intermediate rivers. The first claim on this is given to the Vaduvur tank, which, however, is not a big tank, then to the Veeranam tank in view of the interception at Mettur of the Cauvery freshes. Project tanks will be kept on the same footing as direct ayacut of the old delta.

New rule 4.—The preferential supply to the Veeranam tank when supply is in excess of normal requirements is—

Carrying capacity of the Vadavar (Lower Coleroon Anicut) canal $\frac{\text{direct ayacut} - \text{Veeranam ayacut}}{50}$.

For Vaduvur tank:

Capacity of the Vadavar (Vennar) minus $\frac{\text{Existing ayacut}}{134} - \frac{\text{Project ayacut}}{70}$.

Rule 5.—Owing to the time taken for the water to reach the Grand Anicut from Mettur, there will be temporary fluctuations which should not be considered as surplus and hence this rule.

Rule 7.—Full supply for transplantation will be available till the 30th September. The double crop area of 147,500 acres will require no water from the 16th September to the 15th October. The demand on the first half of October for the single crop area will be at a higher duty than the normal. All these tend to reduce the supply required in the first half of October. Demand in the second half of October will increase owing to the demand for the second crop on 147,500 acres above referred to. All this is not mathematically correct; but there is no doubt that after the 30th September the demand will be less. Hence the date for commencing turns has been changed from the 15th of September to the 1st of October. No reference is made to full supply as the supply is controlled and the requirements for half monthly periods are fixed in the rules of regulation of the Mettur reservoir.

RULES FOR THE REGULATION OF THE GRAND ANICUT CANAL HEAD SLUICE.

1. The Grand Anicut canal shall be opened for irrigation on the 16th of June.

2. The Grand Anicut Supervisor shall, in the absence of any requisition from the Executive Engineer, Grand Anicut Canal division, to reduce the supply, regulate the head sluice so as to maintain the levels required for the discharges as shown in the following table:—

Period.	Discharge in cusecs.	Gauge reading.

16th July to 31st July	3,586

15th October to 31st October	3,033
1st November to 15th November	1,614—At project duties.

1st November to 31st January.—Supply required will depend on the state of the north-east monsoon rainfall and shall be fixed by the Superintending Engineer according to actual requirements.

3. Should the supply available for distribution also to the Grand Anicut be in excess of normal requirements, such excess shall, after meeting the requirements of the Vaduvur and the Veeranam tanks and subject to rule 4 of the "rules of regulation at the Grand Anicut and the Cauvery-Vennar regulators" be drawn on for filling the tanks under the Grand Anicut canal up to the maximum carrying capacity of the latter.

4 The Executive Engineer, Grand Anicut Canal division, shall intimate the Superintendent of Works at Mettur and the Supervisor at the Grand Anicut whenever supply should be reduced below what is provided in these rules.

4 The gauge readings corresponding to the discharges in rules 2 and 3 above shall be checked by gaugings from time to time and revised as found necessary.

5. If supply has to be restricted to any river below maximum supply, it shall, if required, be diverted to the other rivers as directed by the Executive Engineer

6 When the Section Officer at the Regulator observes rain in the Vadavar basin, he shall diminish the supply in the Vadavar suitably and report his action to the Executive Engineer

7 During floods in the rivers or heavy rains in the delta, rules of ordinary regulation will not be applicable and orders should be taken from the Executive Engineer regarding the depths which should be maintained in the Vennar and the Vettar below the regulators.

8. If the dates of opening of the Cauvery, the Vennar and Grand Anicut Canal are notified by the Superintending Engineer to be earlier than the 15th of June, the dates, the 16th of June and 15th of July, mentioned in these rules shall be advanced correspondingly.

Explanatory Notes to the rules of regulation of water at the Vennar, the Vettar and the Vadavar regulators.

Rule 1.—Provides for distribution for the double crop area in the proportion of (existing+proposed) double crop areas under the Vennar, the Vettar and the Vadavar.

Rule 2.—This rule provides for distribution up to normal supply The normal supply duty for the Vennar, the Vettar and the old ayacuts of the Vadavar is 85½ and for the new ayacut under the Vadavar the normal duty is 70. No attempt has been made to raise the duty for the new area when the duties for the old area are higher than 85½ till the duty for the old area and the new area are both 70 or higher. For example—when the supply available for the old area is at 80 duty the supply for the new area will still be 70, but when the supply available for the old area is only 70 the duty for the new area will also be 75.

Rule 3.—This provides for giving preferential supply to the Vadavar up to its maximum carrying capacity, when the main river supply is above normal.

NOTE.—(1) The gauge readings corresponding to the proportionate discharges may be checked by gaugings from time to time and revised as may be found necessary.

(2) If supply has to be restricted in the Koraiyar river below maximum supply, it shall, if required, be diverted to the other rivers as directed by the Executive Engineer.

(3) If the dates of opening of the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal are notified by the Superintending Engineer to be earlier than the 12th of June, the dates, the 16th of June and 16th of July, mentioned in these rules shall be advanced correspondingly.

Drainage.

1. When water in the main river has risen to maximum supply and continues to rise the shutters of the Vennar and the Pamaniar regulators shall be gradually lifted clear above the water surface and those of the Koraiyar shall be so regulated as not to allow, if possible, more than 7·0 on its rear gauge.

2. The main maximum is 6·0 on the Vennar front gauge; when therefore the main river rises to 7·5 on the above-mentioned gauge, the Superintendent shall telephone (a) to the Superintendent of the Vennar Vettar regulator warning him not to pass any larger discharge and (b) to the Executive Engineer, Vennar, telegraphing him accordingly.

Explanatory Note—Rules of regulation at the Koraiyar head.

Rule 1 provides for the distribution of supply proportionately for the double crop area, the ayacuts assumed being "existing and proposed" in each river.

The old rules provided for different methods of regulation according to the state of supply in the river. These have been altered to continuous proportionate supply during the irrigation season.

It was suggested that when supply in the river falls below normal, a system of turns may be observed, viz., normal supply to Vennar on Monday, Thursday and Friday, to the Koraiyar on Tuesday and Saturday and to the Pamaniar Wednesday and Sunday, the excess supply during turn days being distributed to the non-turn rivers in proportion to their ayacuts.

Another suggestion made was that proportionate distribution may be made down to half maximum supply or 70 duty and turns proportionate to the ayacuts may be made when the supply is less. This will give 1·25, 2·25 and 3·00 days for the Pamaniar, the Koraiyar and the Vennar in a period of seven days. The first suggestion is based on the existing rules of regulation but if it is adopted under future conditions of controlled supply, the Koraiyar will be very much at a disadvantage.

If the second suggestion is adopted, it will necessitate devising suitable turns at the Vennar-Pandavayar regulator and the Vennar-Vellayar regulator so as to ensure the two and a half days' normal supply being distributed equitably between the Vennar, the Pandavayar and the Vellayar. In the rules framed for the Vennar-Vellayar regulator, turns were proposed below half maximum supply on the basis of four days for the Vellayar and three days for the Vennar. This would mean that one or other of the two rivers will get no benefit from the two and a half days' turn for the Vennar at Koraiyar head.

The turns proposed at this regulator will be dispensed with. After the transplantation is over about the 15th of September, the demand for water will become less and the rules of regulation at the Grand Anicut and the Cauvery-Vennar regulators, will provide for normal supply in the Cauvery and the Vennar in alternate weeks, the balance going in the other river. This will ensure normal supplies in all rivers in alternate weeks, and a reduced supply in the intermediate weeks. Under such conditions the proportionate distribution at all stages will work satisfactorily.

Note 3 under rule 3.—The maximum supply levels corresponding to 35 duty are for the Pamaniar, the Koraiyar and the Vennar 4·93, 6·78 and 5·36 respectively. Under existing conditions, there is difficulty to maintain such a high depth in the Koraiyar during the irrigation season; this may perhaps be due to augmentation of supply in the lower reaches from channels taking off the Vennar and the Pamaniar. Conditions may be different after the sluices are remodelled. The note is inserted to give discretion to divert the supply above normal to other rivers to the extent to which is not required in the Koraiyar.

Note.—The 42 gauge readings corresponding to the discharges in columns (3) and (4) shall be carried periodically by actual gaugings and revised as may be found necessary

3. When the level in the front of the Vennar shutters rises above 6·2 there shall be no regulation and the shutters of both the Vennar and the Pandavayar shall be lifted 1 foot clear over water.

4. If the dates of opening of the Cauvery, the Vennaru and the Grand Anicut Canal are notified by the Superintending Engineer to be earlier than the 16th of June, the dates, 16th of June and 16th of July, mentioned in these rules shall be advanced correspondingly.

Explanatory Note to the Rules of Regulation at the Vennar Pandavayar head.

Rule 1 provides for the distribution of supply for the double-crop area in June proportionate to the double-crop ayacuts (existing plus proposed).

Rule 2 has been framed for proportionate distribution the ayacuts of the Vennar and the Pandavayar being 31,293 and 23,963 acres. The rules framed by the Superintending Engineer provided for (1) proportionate discharges till the total supply was above normal supply at 2·3 duty, (2) a system of turns below the full supply above the regulator full to normal supply discharges of the Vennar, i.e. five days normal supply into the Pandavayar, and (3) another system of turns Vennar, two days' certain supply into the Vennaru and the balance into the Pandavayar, and the Pandavayar when the total supply fell below normal supply of the Vennar, i.e. supply to be distributed in the ratio of 1 : 1½ for the Pandavayar and the Vennar for five days and all the supply available during the week in the proportion of 1 : 1½ and they ignore all these three conditions with distribute

4. If such petitions be received from the ryots when there is no heavy rain, the Superintendent shall report about it to the Executive Engineer and take his orders on the subject of closing Vennar for 36 hours.

5. The probable rise on the river gauge of the Vellayar in consequence of closing the Vennar under rule 3 or 4 shall be reported by the Superintendent to the Executive Engineer in time together with the written requests of the ryots for information.

6. These rules will not be applicable during floods when regulation is made as directed by the Executive Engineer.

7. If the dates of opening of the Cauvery, the Vennar and the Grand Anicut Canal are notified by the Superintending Engineer to be earlier than the 16th of June, the dates, 16th of June and 16th of July, mentioned in these rules shall be advanced correspondingly.

Explanatory Note to the Rules of Regulation at the Vennar-Vellayar head.

In the rules framed by the Superintending Engineer, terms are proposed when the supply falls below half of maximum supply and a turn of three days is proposed for the Vennar and four days for the Vellayar. If the same principle of regulation is adopted at the Vennar-Koraiyar regulator and at the Vennar-Pandavaiyar regulator, the Vennar below the Vennar-Pandavaiyar head will get a turn of only less than two days in the week. On the basis of a three days turn for the Vennar and four days for the Vellayar the available supply in two days will be mostly drawn by one or other of the two rivers. It is therefore considered necessary so to revise the rule as to ensure proportionate supply to both the rivers. The rules proposed for the Grand Anicut and the Cauvery-Vennar regulators will ensure normal supply in every alternate week until a reduced supply in the other weeks after the completion of the transplantation, i.e., the 15th of September. Continuous proportionate supply as now proposed will therefore ensure command and quantity under all conditions.

Custom House, Madras,
4th December 1933.

In a Press Communiqué which was published by the Government of India in the Finance Department (Central Revenues) on the 22nd May 1931 the conditions governing the relaxation of the Salt Law in favour of residents in villages immediately adjoining areas where salt can be collected or made, were published; it was announced that the concessions would be withdrawn from villages where it was found that it was abused and that wherever it was discovered that salt was manufactured or collected in quantities above the requirements of a part solar village, abuse of the concessions would be presumed. It was further laid down that there should be no sale of salt for purposes of trade outside the villages and that consequently only the removal of salt on foot should be permitted.

2. It has unfortunately become clear that in the Chingleput taluk of the Chingleput district the said concession has been freely abused by the collectors and removal of salt from swamps much in excess of all local requirements for many months and by its removal to distant places by carts and boats for regular issue. As this constitutes a breach of the agreement, the Collector of Salt Revenue, Madras, in consultation with the Madras Government hereby notifies the withdrawal of the convenient and lucrative rights in the Chingleput taluk of the Chingleput district.

C. R. WATKINS,
Collector of Salt Revenue.

Madras, 4th December 1933.

TENDER FOR THE WORK OF CONSTRUCTING ENGINE HOUSE QUARTERS FOR THE ENGINE DRIVER, ASSISTANT DRIVER AND A WATCHMAN FOR THE VIRUDUNAGAR WATER-WORKS.

Tenders will be received by the Executive Engineer, Ramnad Division, at his office at Madura, up to 4 p.m., on 3rd January 1934, for the work of constructing an Engine house for Virudunagar water-works, quarters for an Engine Driver, an Assistant Driver and a watchman at Headworks

The tender should be in the prescribed form obtainable from the Executive Engineer's Office.

2. Tenders must be submitted in sealed covers, and should be addressed to the Executive Engineer, Ramnad Division, the name of the tenderer and the name of the work being noted on the cover.

If the tender is made by an individual, it shall be signed with his full name and his address shall be given. If it is made by a firm, it shall be signed with the co-partnership name by a member of the firm, who shall also sign his own name and the name and address of each member of the firm shall be given. If the tender is made by a corporation, it shall be signed by a duly authorised officer who shall produce with his tender, satisfactory evidence of his authorization. Such tendering corporation may be required, before the contract is executed, to furnish evidence of its corporate existence.

3 Each tenderer must pay, as earnest money, a sum of Rs. 700 (seven hundred) only into the branch of the Imperial Bank of India or into the Government treasury or sub-treasury within the jurisdiction of the Executive Engineer concerned to the credit of Receipts Deposits on behalf of the Executive Engineer at the Ramnad Division and enclose with his tender the challan tendered accordingly. This earnest money will be refunded to the unsuccessful tenderers on application, after intimation to that effect of the tender or at the expiration of two months from date of tender, whichever is earlier. This refund will be authorized by the Executive Engineer by suitable endorsement on the challan. The earnest money will not be received in cash or currency notes by the Public Works Department Officers, save in exceptional cases, where there are no treasuries or banks within the jurisdiction of the officer calling for tenders. When currency notes are given, the tenderer should sign his name in full with date, on the back of all the currency notes given by him, whatever their denominations may be.

The earnest money will be retained in the case of the successful tenderer and will not carry any interest. It will be dealt with as provided in the tender.

4. When a tender is to be accepted, the tenderer, whose tender is under consideration, shall attend the Division Office on the date fixed by written intimation to him. He shall forthwith upon intimation being given to him by the Executive Engineer of acceptance of his tender make a security deposit of Rs. 700 (seven hundred) only in one of the forms prescribed in the Madras Public Works Account Code and sign an agreement in the proper departmental form for the due fulfilment of the contract. This security deposit together with the earnest money and the amount withheld according to clause 61 of the Standard Preliminary Specification of the Madras Detailed Standard Specifications will be retained as security for the due fulfilment of this contract. If a cash security deposit is made by the contractor he shall follow the procedure laid down in the preceding paragraph for payment of earnest money and such deposit will not bear interest. Failure to enter into the required agreement or to make the security deposit as defined in this paragraph shall entail forfeiture of the earnest money

5. The tenderer shall examine closely the Madras Detailed Standard Specifications, and also the Standard Preliminary Specification contained therein, and sign the Divisional Office copy of the Madras Detailed Standard Specifications and its addenda volume in token of such study before submitting his tender unit rates which shall be for finished work in situ. He shall also carefully study the drawings and additional specifications and all the documents which form part of the agreement to be entered into by the accepted tenderer. The Madras Detailed Standard Specifications and other documents connected with the contract such as specifications, plans, descriptive specification sheet regarding materials, etc., can be seen at any time between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. on office days, in the office of the Executive Engineer, Ramnad Division.

6. The tenderer's attention is directed to the requirements for materials under the clause "Materials and workmanship" in the 'Preliminary Specification." Materials conforming to the British Standard Specifications shall be used on the work, and the tenderer shall quote his rates accordingly.

7 Every tenderer is expected, before quoting his rates, to inspect the site of the proposed work. He should also inspect the quarries, and satisfy himself about the quality and workability of materials. The names of quarries, lakes etc., wherefrom certain materials are to be obtained will be given in the Descriptive Specification Sheet. The best class of materials to be obtained from the quarries or other source defined shall be used on the work. In every case the materials must comply with the relevant standard specifications. Samples of materials as called for in the standard specifications, or in the tender notice, or as required by the Executive Engineer in any case, shall be submitted for the Executive Engineer's approval before the supply in site of work is begun. If the contractor, after examination of the source of materials defined in the Descriptive Specification Sheet, is of opinion that materials complying with the standard or other specifications of the contract cannot be obtained in quality or sufficient quantity from the source defined in the Descriptive Specification Sheet, he shall so state clearly in his tender and state wherefrom he intends to obtain materials, subject to the approval of the Executive Engineer.

The Government will not, however, alter acceptance of a contract rate pay any extra charges for lead or for any other reason, in case the contractor is found later on to have misjudged the materials available. Attention of the contractor is directed to the standard "Preliminary Specification" regarding payment of seigniorage, bulking etc.

8. The tenderer's particular attention is drawn to the sections and clauses in the standard "Preliminary Specification" dealing with—

(1) test, inspection and rejection of defective materials and work,
(2) carriage,
(3) construction plant,
(4) water and lights,
(5) clearing up during progress and for delivery,
(6) accidents,
(7) delays, and
(8) particulars of payment.

The contractor should closely peruse all the specification clauses which govern the rate which he is to tender.

9. A schedule of quantities accompanies this tender notice. It shall be distinctly understood that the Government does not accept any responsibility for the correctness or completeness of the schedule, and that this schedule is liable to eliminations by omissions, deductions, or additions at the discretion of the Executive Engineer, Roads Division, or as set forth in the conditions of contract. The tenderer will, however, base his lumpsum tender on the schedule of quantities. He should quote specific rates for each item in the schedule, and the rate should be in rupees, annas, and in terms of three pies. The rate should be written both in words and figures and the entire in words. The tenderer shall also show the totals of each item and the grand total of the whole contract, and quote in the tender a lump sum for which he will undertake to do the whole work subject to the conditions of contract. The schedule accompanying the lumpsum tender shall be written legibly and free from erasures, overwritings or corrections of figures. Corrections, where unavoidable, should be made by crossing out, initialling dating and rewriting.

10 Tenders offering a percentage deduction from or increase on the estimate amount, and if sent not submitted in proper form or in duplicate will be rejected. Rates or lump sum amounts for items not called for shall not be included in the tender. No alteration which is made by the tenderer in the contract form, the conditions of contract, the drawings, specifications, or quantities accompanying same will be recognised, and, if any such alterations are made, the tender will be void.

11. The tenderer should work out his own rates, without reference being made to the Public Works Department current schedule of rates or to the Public Works Department estimate rates which are not open for inspection by tenderers.

12 The attention of the tenderers is directed to the contract requirements as to the time of beginning work, the rate of progress, and the dates for the completion of the whole work and the several parts. The following rate of progress and proportionate value of work done from time to time, as will be indicated by the Executive Engineer's certificates of the value of work done will be required. Dates of commencement of this programme will be the dates on which the site (or premises) is handed over to the contractor :—

Period after date of commencement.	Percentage of work completed (based on contract lump-sum amount)
One month	20 per cent.
Three months	50 per cent
Six months	100 per cent.

13. No part of the contract shall be sublet without written permission of the Executive Engineer nor shall transfer be made by power-of-attorney authorising others to receive payment on the contractor's behalf.

14. If further necessary information is required, the Executive Engineer of the Division will furnish such, but it must be clearly understood that tenders must be received in order, and according to instructions.

15 The Executive Engineer or other sanctioning authority reserves the right to reject any tender or all the tenders without assigning any reason therefor.

2. The wood has been classified according to the classes noted above. Intending purchasers are advised to inspect in advance, the lots put up for sale, but they must accept the classification made in the depot as final.

3. The various classes have been stored in the sandalwood godown in lots of 5, 10 and 15 tons for convenience, but the lots so exposed will not constitute an actual lot for which bids will be accepted. Each class of wood will be offered for sale separately in lots of 15, 10 or 5 tons or less if convenient, such lots merely consisting of a certain quantity of the class of wood then being sold. Bids will be per ton of each class of wood.

4. The sale will be subject to confirmation by the Conservator of Forests, Salem Circle, who does not bind himself to accept the highest or any bid.

5. Before being allowed to bid, each intending bidder must pay an earnest money deposit of Rs. 1,000 if paid in cash immediately before the sale, else should preferably be in the form of Madras notes for Rs. 1,000 or Rs. 500. A receipted Government treasury challan for the amount will also be accepted. In the case of intending bidders, who have previously bought sandalwood from the Forest Department, a cheque on the Imperial Bank of India for the amount will be accepted, but the discretion to accept such cheques rests entirely with the officer conducting the sale.

6. The earnest money deposit of unsuccessful bidders will be returned immediately after the sale is over, and that of successful bidders will be credited towards the first instalment of the purchase price.

7. Each purchaser shall, immediately, a lot is knocked down to him, sign his name at the foot of the sale list, in the column provided for the purpose, and such signature will be held as an admission, on his part of his having purchased that particular lot and of having accepted the conditions of the sale notice. No person will be allowed to deposit and bid jointly at the sale.

8. Immediately the sale is over, each purchaser, if his offer for any particular lot has been accepted by the Conservator of Forests, will be furnished with a memorandum showing the total amount due from him. He shall remit 25 per cent of this amount, less the earnest money deposit into the Imperial Bank of India at Vellore or Madras, within eight days of the confirmation of the sale and another 25 per cent before the 7th March 1934 the balance of 50 per cent being paid on or before 28th April 1934, or against delivery whichever is earlier. Should any purchaser fail to make the necessary remittances by the due dates the money already remitted shall lapse to Government and the District Forest Officer will be at liberty to resell the wood in question at the risk of the purchaser who shall be liable for any loss, but shall not participate in any profit which may arise by the resale.

9. After 50 per cent of the entire sale value has been paid to the credit of the Forest Department delivery of the sandalwood shall be made to the purchaser provided that until full payment has been made a quantity of wood equivalent to 25 per cent of the full sale value shall remain unremoved, even though paid for.

10. On the purchaser's presenting chalans as proof that 50 per cent of the entire sale value has been paid, a proportion of the wood purchased will be weighed in his or his agent's presence and the quantity handed over to him as provided for in condition 9 supra. If, however, proof is produced that the entire sale value has been paid, the whole sandalwood purchased will be weighed and handed over. The purchaser must take delivery of and remove the whole of the wood sold to him on or before the 14th May 1934.

Should any excess over the quantity paid for be found in the quantity purchased when weighing at the time of delivery, the excess will be paid for by the purchaser at the rate at which it was originally purchased before effecting removal. If any one purchaser has purchased more than one lot or class and if there is any excess in one lot or class and deficit in the other, when weighing at the time of delivery on a particular day, the value of the deficit entered calculated on the rate at which the main lot or class was sold will be adjusted towards the value of the excess quantity entered in the other lot or class as the case may be, and the balance, if any, still due from the purchaser will be collected before permitting him to remove the quantity delivered during the day. If, however, the net quantity delivered results in a deficit on account of drynge over the recorded quantity at the time of sale, the value of the deficit quantity at the purchased rate will be refunded in due course.

11. The accepted bidders, when deputing their agents to take delivery, must furnish such agent with a power of attorney duly stamped and bearing the signature of the person so deputed. A copy of the power of attorney must also be sent to the District Forest Officer by post, with four specimen signature of the agent. Failing this, delivery may be refused pending verification, in which case the delay will count against the accepted bidder.

12. No further cleaning or classification of sandalwood will be undertaken by the Forest Department nor will purchasers be allowed to clean any wood previous to weighment. The classification, cleaning and weighment as determined by the Forest Department must be accepted.

13. After the wood has once been weighed and handed over, if the purchaser fails to remove all the wood within the valda allowed in the clause 10 demurrage will be charged at the rate of Rs. 2 per ton per diem from the last date fixed for delivery until the wood is finally removed.

14. No sandalwood shall be removed from the depot till a licence to remove it signed by the officer of the Forest Department who delivered the wood, shall have been obtained and till every piece of sandalwood that can be stamped bears the Department's 'sale hammer' mark.

15. The officer conducting the sale shall be at liberty to stop the sale at any time without giving any reason to the intending purchasers.

16. The wood purchased by each purchaser shall be in the depot at the purchaser's risk from the date of sale until it is removed.

17. The contractor shall bear the cost of taking delivery of sandalwood.

18. Each intending bidder unless specially exempted by the Conservator of Forests, Salem Circle, Salem, as no application made in writing at least fifteen days before the date of sale, must produce a solvency certificate signed by a responsible Revenue Officer of the district in which he resides, and the District Forest Officer holding the sale may refuse to allow any bid by one so exempted to bid beyond the amount guaranteed in such certificates.

13. Any supplementary conditions that may be found necessary will be added and read out at the time of auction.

20. The full quantity of wood advertised for sale will not necessarily be put up to auction.

21. Further particulars can be had on application to the District Forest Officer, West Vellore Division, Tirupattur, North Arcot.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY DEPARTMENT.

The following report of the Joint Committee on the Bill to constitute a Reserve Bank of India was presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 20th November, 1933 :—

We, the undersigned, members of the Joint Committee to which the Bill to constitute a Reserve Bank of India was referred, have considered the Bill and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

2. We first met in Simla on the 10th September, 1933, to elect our Chairman and settle some preliminary points of procedure. We then met in New Delhi and sat continuously from the 23rd October until the 16th November, 1933. We examined a number of witnesses and we take this opportunity of thanking them for the readiness with which they accepted our invitation and undertook long journeys at short notice to appear before us. Their evidence has been of very great help to us and has enabled us to suggest a large number of amendments in the Bill which we hope will ensure the smooth working of the new Bank, and prove beneficial to the general interests of the country.

3. We deal below with the Bill clause by clause referring to each clause by its original number. In the Bill, however, we have renumbered the clauses and, for convenience the original numbering has been reproduced in the margin of the Bill as a new proposal.

Preamble.—We have made a verbal alteration to indicate more definitely what we consider to be the main purposes of the Bill.

Clause 1.—Although we agree that no specific date can be enacted for setting up the Bank, we desire to represent strongly to the Government that the Bank should be set up with all possible speed.

We have substituted the words "this Act" for "Chapter III" in sub-clause (4) because we do not see any reason why the other Chapters of the Bill do not become operative simultaneously with Chapter III.

Clause 2, sub-clause (b).—We considered whether it was necessary to frame a more comprehensive definition of "bank in se" but decided that there was no necessity as it thus the definition might be complicated.

Sub-clause (f).—We are of opinion that contributions of external assets should be confined to Government securities of the United Kingdom and that purchases of foreign currency should be restricted to sterling. We have modified clauses 17 and 33 accordingly. The definition of sterling standard countries (for such purchases) is necessary.

Sub-clause (g).—We have left the definition of "provincial co-operative bank" because the wording of the original Bill would not have covered the special conditions as regards co-operative banks in the United Provinces.

Clause 4, sub-clause (1).—In order to ensure that the shares of the Reserve Bank shall be widely held we recommend that the nominal value of such shares should be reduced from Rs. 500 to Rs. 100.

Sub-clause (2).—It was represented to us that shares should not be allowed to be transferred from one register to another because this might lead to certain registers being denuded of a large number of shares, thus leaving the holders of a comparatively small number of shares to elect representatives by the Local Board and thereby to the Central Board. We have come to the conclusion that the advantages of free marketability are so great that transfer from one register to another should be freely allowed. We further consider that a contingency such as that referred to is extremely unlikely to arise and that a ready sale of the shares of the Reserve Bank when once allotted will be firmly held as a lock up investment by the original holders. If, contrary to our expectations, it is found that one register is accumulating a large number of shares we do not see it being denuded by a really substantial percentage, the Government should consider the question of bringing forward suitable amending legislation to enable it to rectify the position.

Sub-clause (3).—As regards the provisions of this sub-clause, while we are prepared to accord full equality of treatment to United Kingdom British subjects so long as they are normally resident in India on the ground that the United Kingdom Government grants the same reciprocal treatment to Indians resident there, the case is different as regards those Dominions which in various ways apply discriminatory provisions to the Indian Subjects of His Majesty. We feel that every occasion should be taken to assert the principle that the citizens of such Dominions should not be allowed equal privileges in India so long as their Governments maintain any measure of discrimination against Indians, and we have taken the opportunity of this particular Bill to give effect to this principle by recommending changes in sub-clauses (3) (b) and (7) (c).

Sub-clause (3) (c).—As regards this sub-clause, it has also been brought to our notice that the limitations on share-holding provided for in sub-clauses (3) (a) and (3) (b) might be defeated if subjects of a foreign country or of a British Dominion which has discriminated against India were to form themselves into a limited company for the purpose of holding shares in the Reserve Bank, and we therefore considered whether some provision should be inserted to the effect that a company registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1913 should only be allowed to hold shares if a majority of the shareholders consisted of persons qualified under sub-clauses (3) (a) and (3) (b). It appeared to us on further examination, however, that any such provision would be extremely difficult to enforce in practice owing to the constant variations which would be possible in the shareholders of any company. On the other hand, the alternative of excluding companies not registered in India altogether would go too far, for there are many private and public companies formed for the purposes of investment which might hold shares in the Reserve Bank. We have not therefore proposed the introduction of any restriction, but we recommend that the Government and the Central Board of the Reserve Bank should watch carefully for any signs of evasion of the purposes of sub-clauses (3) (a) and (5) (b) by the formation of companies by persons disqualified from holding shares. If any such abuse were to attain more than casual proportions we think that the Government should consider amending legislation.

Sub-clause (4).—We have recommended the deletion of the discretionary power proposed to be vested in the Central Board to decline without giving any reasons to allot shares to any applicant or to register any transfer of shares.

Sub-clauses (5) and (6).—We consider that if the scheme for the election of Directors to the Boards of the Reserve Bank is to work satisfactorily the proviso to sub-clause (5) should be deleted and that sub-clause (6) should be amended in the manner suggested by us so as to restrict the sale by the Governor General in Council of unallotted shares only to residents of the areas concerned except as regards a part of the unallotted shares from the Delhi area which we have treated as a special case.

We have carefully considered the manner of allotment of shares in order to secure as wide a distribution of voting rights as possible and to provide due facilities for investment by the less wealthy classes. In view of the reduction which we have recommended in the nominal value of each share we propose that five shares should carry one vote. In allotting the shares assigned to a register the Central Board should therefore in the first instance allot five shares to each qualified applicant who has applied for five or more shares. Of the remaining unallotted shares, shares up to the amount of one-half of the balance should be allotted to applicants for less than five shares. The balance still remaining should be allotted to applicants for more than five shares, the distribution being so made as to secure the widest distribution of voting rights.

In order to avoid any possibility of difficulty for the Directors elected to the Boards of the Reserve Bank to acquire the prescribed number of qualifying shares, we recommend that a sufficient number of shares should be reserved by Government to be available for purchase by the Directors and members of Local Boards at par, and that these purchasers should give an option to Government to repurchase such shares at par when they retire.

We attach great importance to securing that as large a proportion of the population of India as possible shall become shareholders of the Reserve Bank and thereby take an interest in its efficient working. We therefore recommend that the widest publicity should be given to the prospectus of the issue of the Reserve Bank shares and that facilities for application to investors should be given through Government post offices and treasuries.

Sub-clause (6).—We have come to the conclusion that a more equitable distribution of the original capital having regard to the population of the areas concerned be made in the following manner :—

Bombay register—140 lakhs ;
Calcutta register—145 lakhs ;
Delhi register—115 lakhs ;
Madras register—70 lakhs ;
Rangoon register—30 lakhs.

We have suitably amended this sub-clause.

Sub-clause (8).—We have split up the sub-clause into a number of sub-clauses. The original arrangement seemed unwieldy.

Clause 5.—It was originally provided in the Bill that any additional shares created should be assigned to the various registers in any manner fixed by the Central Board with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council and that the latter should also determine the manner in which such additional capital should be allotted to the various areas. We have recommended that the distribution should be in the same proportions as fixed for the original share capital.

In view of the liability that would be placed on the Government by any increase in the share capital of the Bank we consider that the previous approval of the Central Legislature should be obtained to any increase in the share capital.

We have also made certain minor consequential amendments in this clause.

Clause 6.—It was suggested to us that branches of the Reserve Bank should be opened at Lahore, Cawnpore and Karachi. The principal reason for this suggestion was that the banks and the public at these places would not otherwise get the same facilities as would be available at places where there were offices and branches of the Reserve Bank. We wish to emphasize that at places where it has no branch the Reserve Bank must through its agencies, give the facilities of the same leagacy as are available at places where it has offices or branches. We do not desire to fetter the discretion of the Reserve Bank in regard to the opening of branches as it should be guided in this matter by practical experience. We, however, recommend that in the Agreement between the Reserve Bank and the Imperial Bank of India it should be made clear that the former is not prevented by that Agreement from opening a branch anywhere if it considers this necessary or desirable.

We considered in this connection whether it would be proper to place a statutory obligation on the Reserve Bank to open a branch in London. We have noted that the present tendency among the Central Banks of the world is not to establish branches outside their own countries but to employ other Central Banks as their agents at foreign centres. While we should be unwilling to make any recommendation which could be construed as a failure to appreciate the importance of international co-operation between the Central Banks of various countries, we cannot accept the view that the practice of other countries affords an exact parallel to the particular case of India as regards representation in London. We therefore think that the Board should have absolute discretion to open a branch in London and we recommend that the provision requiring the prior assent of the Governor General in Council should be deleted.

We recommend that, as in the case of the Imperial Bank, the Head Office of the Bank should be migratory, as we consider that otherwise there might be some risk of failure to secure evenly balanced consideration of the varying interests of different parts of the Indian continent. We have therefore amended the clause to provide that there shall be offices in Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi, Madras and Rangoon and have left it to the discretion of the Central Board how they should move their headquarters between them.

Clause 7.—We have made a small drafting amendment to bring out more clearly the intention of this clause.

Clause 8, sub-clause (f) (a).—We consider that one of the most vital points affecting the successful operation of the Bank will be the personality and qualifications of the Governor. It is in our view essential that this should be a man who will command the confidence of the public generally and particularly of banking and commercial circles, so that the policy of the Bank which will largely depend on his guidance, may be accepted as authoritative. We do not consider that these conditions will be fulfilled unless he is a man who has established a posit on in the business world and we have therefore recommended the insertion of a provision in a new sub-clause (2), to cover appointments made both under clause 8 and clause 15, that he must be a man "of tested banking experience covering a period of at least five years." We have given full consideration to the arguments put forward by the Government members who, while not differing from our general appreciation of the position as stated above, have warned us that the actual definition of the qualifications which we have recommended may, on the one hand, prove ineffective for excluding undesirable appointments, and, on the other hand, prove unduly hampering to the discretion of the appointing authorities and by their very rigidity exclude a man who might be exactly fitted for the post. They have pointed out to us that commercial banking appointment is not necessarily an adequate qualification for the head of a Central Bank, and that recent expansion of other countries affords many examples of eminently successful appointments of men who would have been excluded by the words of our proviso. While recognising the force of these arguments, we think it necessary definitely to provide in the statute for the retirement of certain types of appointment which we should consider undesirable, and we are prepared to face the necessity for amending legislation in the event of our words proving in practice to be unduly hampering.

We do not think it necessary to propose any similar restriction on the selection of the Deputy Governor because these appointments will afford a suitable opportunity for giving practical banking experience to men who are otherwise well qualified.

We consider that the responsibilities falling on the chief executive officers of the Bank will be such that it will from the very outset be necessary that there should be two Deputy Governors and we have amended this clause so as to make their appointment obligatory. Many of us wished to add a provision that of the three highest posts thus created (viz., the Governor and two Deputy Governors) one at least should be an Indian. We have, however, been informed that the official members in charge of the Bill are prepared to give a definite assurance in the Legislature that the Government will take account of our representations and that it will be the policy in making the first appointments and thereafter that at least one of the three shall be a qualified Indian. We are satisfied with this assurance.

We wish to make it clear that we accept the proposal of this clause as regards the appointment of the Governor and Deputy Governors on the understanding that there must be prior consultation between the Governor General in Council and the Central Board before any recommendation is made—in short that the practice hitherto followed in the case of the appointment of the Managing Governors of the Imperial Bank, to which an exactly similar statutory provision has applied, should be observed.

Sub-clause (2) (b).—We considered whether any addition should be made to this sub-clause in the form of a direction to the Governor General in Council as to the manner in which he should exercise his power of nomination. We have been assured that it is intended that this power shall be used to ensure that territorial or economic interests which have not secured adequate representation in the elections shall have such inadequacy corrected by this means. We do not consider it appropriate to embody in the statute any specific provision for the fulfilment of this intent on, but we consider that as the instrument of instructions to the Governor General a passage should be inserted making it clear that this power should be exercised in the general manner indicated above and in particular to secure adequate representation of the interests of agriculture and co-operative banking if these interests had not secured such representation among the elected directors.

Sub-clause (3).—We have made an alteration in the wording here. In view of the Government's interest in the financial earnings of the Bank we consider that it should have a voice in fixing the salaries paid to the chief executive officers.

Sub-clause (4).—We recommend that nominated Directors should hold office for two years in the same way as elected Directors. We consider that the provision in its original form might tend to fetter their independence of judgment. We have proposed an amendment for the same purpose in clause 11.

Clause 9, sub-clause (f) (b).—We have filled in an obvious lacuna in this sub-clause and in the new proviso which we have added, we have indicated clearly for the guidance of the Central Board, the object with which the power of nominating three members to each local board has been conferred on that body.

Sub-clause (f).—We have reduced the value of a voting qualification from two shares of Rs. 500 each to five shares of Rs. 100 each.

We have included a provision for the exercise of shareholders' votes by proxy which is undoubtedly necessary. We have, however, thought it desirable to include certain limitations as to the persons who may hold proxies for this purpose, and also to introduce words which will make it clear that a shareholder should not be allowed to give a general proxy and that proxies should not be accepted if made out under a general power-of-attorney.

Sub-clauses (d) and (d A).—We consider it essential for the convenience of the share holders that the Bank should publish adequate notice of elections to the local boards and publish a list of shareholders which should be available to all purchasers. For the full purpose the Bank must have power to suspend the registration of transfers for a reasonable period preceding the election. We have made amendments to give effect to these purposes.

The other amendments suggested by us in this clause are of a drafting nature only.

Clause 10 sub-clause (1).—We have omitted certain words in sub-clause (b) (a) and deleted sub-clause (b) (b) which appeared to us to be unnecessary as the qualifications are sufficiently defined by sub-clause (b) (a).

Sub-clause (2).—We have added in this sub-clause certain additional disqualifications taken from the Indian Companies Act which seem to us to be necessary.

We have abolished the proviso to this sub-clause as we considered that the object in to a State official being appointed would be no less than to any other Government official.

Sub-clause (3-A).—We have proposed the insertion of a new sub-clause on the lines of a similar provision in the Imperial Bank of India Act.

We have also suggested in this clause certain minor amendments of a drafting nature.

Clause 11, sub clause (1).—For the purpose explained in our note on clause 8 (b) we have amended the proviso to this clause so as to place nominated directors on the same footing as elected directors.

Sub clause (2).—We have reduced the value of qualifying shares from Rs. 10,000 to Rs. 5,000. We consider the latter figure adequate.

We have added a provision at the end of this sub-clause for the vacation of office in the case of continued absence. It is of the highest importance that Directors and Members of Local Boards of the Reserve Bank should be ready to give adequate attention to their responsibilities.

Sub-clause (3).—We have altered the wording of this sub-clause so as to make the provision mandatory instead of discretionary. We have also deleted as unnecessary certain words in this sub-clause regulating the period within which directors should be required to acquire the prescribed number of qualifying shares as the addition which we have suggested in new clause 4 (3) should obviate any difficulty.

Sub clause (3-A).—We have inserted a new sub-clause (3-A); we feel that in the interests of the Bank a provision on these lines is desirable.

Sub-clause (4).—We have increased the period within which a member of the Legislature must permit office. To limit this to one month would, in our opinion, present practical difficulties.

Clause 12, sub-clause (2).—We think that the initiative in this matter should come from the Central Board. We have amended this sub-clause accordingly.

Sub-clauses (3) and (6).—We have rearranged the provisions of these sub-clauses as it did not appear to us that in their original form they provided properly for maintaining at all times the representative nature of the elected members of the Central Board. The effect of our proposals is that a vacancy of an elected member in the Central Board will be filled in the following manner: first an election to fill the vacancy in the Local Board and then an election by the newly completed local board to fill the vacancy in the Central Board. In the case of a vacancy of an elected member of a Local Board who is not also a member of the Central Board we consider that it would suffice for such a vacancy to be filled by co-option until such time as the Local Board is called upon to fulfil its function of electing a member to the Central Board. Before that is done, the co-opted member should be replaced by an elected member.

Clause 13, sub-clause (2).—We have made an amendment consequential to our amendment of clause 6.

Sub-clause (2-A).—We think that provision should be made so as to enable any three Directors to convene a meeting of the Central Board. We have added this new sub clause accordingly.

We considered whether it was necessary to provide what should be a quorum for a Directors' meeting, but have agreed that this matter should properly be governed by regulations to be made under clause 58.

Clause 11.—We have made a consequential amendment corresponding to our amendment of clause 6. We have followed the procedure of the Imperial Bank of India.

Clause 13, sub-clauses (3) and (4).—We have redrafted these sub-clauses on lines which we consider to be a distinct improvement on the original drafts of these sub-clauses, by providing both for a more even flow of replacement and for a quicker replacement of nominated by elected directors.

As regards the general purpose of the sub-clause the non-official members of the Committee have made it clear that they would not consider anything less than 75 per cent. of the voting directors as affording a proper representation of Indians. We have received no assurance on behalf of the Government from the Government members of the Committee that the Governor General in Council will exercise his powers so as to secure the proper representation of Indians on the first Board.

Clause 17, sub-clause (1).—We think that it is desirable to make it clear that the Reserve Bank can accept money on deposit from local authorities We have amended the sub-clause accordingly

Sub-clause (2) (a).—We have added the word 'on" to enable the Bank to discount rupee import bills in the event of such instruments coming into existence in the future as contemplated by the Central Banking Enquiry Committee.

Sub-clause (2) (b).—We consider that the period of six months is unduly restrictive in the case of agricultural bills and, following the practice in the United States of America, we have raised the period of six to nine months. We have also omitted the proviso in the original clause as being undesirable in the present conditions of India.

Sub clause (3).—We have re-arranged this sub clause and divided it into three sub clauses 3 (a), (b) and (c). In sub-clause (3) (a) we have restricted the operations of the Reserve Bank to scheduled banks only, as we do not think the Bank would normally require to transact such business with other persons, while we have separately provided in clause 14 for relaxing the restrictions in this sub-clause on special occasions.

On the other hand in sub-clause 3 (b) we have removed any restrictions on the persons with whom the Bank may deal outside India in sterling bills.

We have altered this sub-clause consistently with the recommendations recorded in our note on clause 2 (d) that operations in foreign currency should be restricted to sterling currency of the United Kingdom

Sub clause (c).—We consider that in ordinary circumstances dealings under this sub-clause should be restricted to banks, public authorities and Indian States. We have made provision in clause 13 for its extension where this is considered desirable on special occasions.

Sub-clause (4) (b).—We have included silver.

Sub-clause (4) (c).—We have omitted the proviso for the same reasons which led us to omit the proviso to sub-clause (2) (b) of this clause.

Sub-clause (4) (d).—We have omitted this as unnecessary in consequence of the change made in 17 (4) (c).

Sub-clause (4) (e).—We have omitted the proviso because we consider that there is little likelihood of the bill habit developing within five years to such an extent as to make it possible to discontinue this practice within that time.

Sub-clause (5).—We consider that the provision in its original form might lead to undue latitude. In an extreme case it would be permissible for Government to borrow in this way for a period of fifteen months. We consider that such advances should normally, as soon as possible, be converted into treasury bills which should be offered on the open market even though the Reserve Bank may take them up. We have therefore limited the period to three months. We have enlarged the scope of this clause so as to include advances to such Local Governments as may have the custody and management of their own provincial revenues

Sub-clause (6).—We were informed that bank post bills are not made payable elsewhere than at the office of issue and have amended, the sub-clause so as to state the existing practice correctly.

Sub-clause (7).—We consider that in view of the limitation of holdings to securities of the British Government [vide our note on sub-clause (2) (d)] this provision is unduly restrictive and that the Bank should be empowered to purchase such securities up to a maturity of ten years. We must make it clear that our intention is that this should be merely an enabling clause and that in practice the Bank should arrange for its holding of securities to be as liquid as possible.

Sub-clause (3).—We consider that the sub-clause as originally drafted was unduly restrictive and would not allow sufficient facilities for open market operations by the Bank. We have therefore modified the amounts in the proviso but wish to make the same point here which we did with reference to sub-clause (2), namely, that these figures are to be regarded as a maximum and that in ordinary circumstances the Bank must keep its security holding as liquid as possible and operate well below those limits. We also consider that, in view of recent listed issue by provincial Governments, there is no reason for restricting the maturity of securities of a Local Government to ten years. As regards securities of Local Authorities and of States in India we think it better that instead of limiting these according to their maturity, their eligibility should be subject to the general overriding approval of the Government of India which would enable each particular case to be considered on its merits. We have amended the sub-clause accordingly.

We also wish to provide that where a security is fully guaranteed both as to principal and interest by any authority it shall be considered for all purposes as the equivalent of a security of such authority.

Sub-clause (2).—We have not restricted the operation of this sub-clause to scheduled banks or public authorities because we consider that there might be cases in which such restriction would operate inconvenitently in practice. At the same time we wish to make it clear that in our view this power should not be exercised by the Bank so as to compete in its normal business with the commercial business of other banks. It should be the duty of the Government to watch this and to see that the interests of other banks are in practice protected.

Sub-clause (13).—We are no reason why this should be restricted to sterling standard countries. It is desirable to promote co-operation between Central Banks, and we therefore consider that the Reserve Bank should be empowered to act as the agent of any Central Bank, and vice versa.

Clause 18.—We have added words to the clause so as to make it clear that although the exercise of these powers should not necessarily be regarded as limited to occasions of so critical a nature as to justify their description as an emergency, nevertheless they are not to be used for the normal operations of the Bank and should be restricted to special occasions. We have also modified it so as to provide for the delegation of the powers of the Board to a committee of the Board as well as to the Governor. We have further thought it desirable to make it clear that although in order to make quick action possible the Board may delegate its special powers under this section to a committee or to the Governor nevertheless such delegated powers should not normally be utilized without previous consultation with the Board and that in case of special urgency such previous consultation is impossible, the members of the Board shall be informed at once so that, if they think fit, they can convene a special meeting to have the policy considered and decided.

We have also made amendments consequential on the limitations which we have suggested in our amendments in sub-clause (3) and sub-clause (4) of clause 17.

Clause 19, sub-clause (1).—The word "unsecured" appears to convey very little meaning without qualification and we think that it should be omitted, thus leaving the powers to make loans and advances exclusively regulated by the clauses which give powers in this respect.

Clauses 20 and 21.—We think that it should be made clear that the Governor General in Council should have the final power of decision regarding the terms on which these transactions are to be carried out in the unlikely event of a failure to settle them by agreement. We also consider that the Agreement to be entered into with the Reserve Bank, in view of its importance, should be laid on the table of both Houses.

Clause 21 sub-clause (2).—We have omitted the words "in India." They appear to us to be unnecessary, because in present circumstances neither the Governor General nor Local Governments can, as much, lend loans outside India, and, should they acquire this power in the future, an amendment would be necessary, if these words were retained, to have them removed.

Clause 24.—We do not see any need to use the expression "paper runnay." We also think that the limitation to one year is unduly rigid and might prove inconvenient in practice, while on the other hand, we cannot see any objection to the Bank being allowed to use Government currency notes until the stocks are exhausted.

Clause 26.—We consider that the clause in its original form was unduly rigid and might have proved inconvenient.

Clause 23.—We have added a few words so as to make it clear that the primary duty for making proposals as to the form and design of notes rests with the Central Board. We consider that sudden and drastic changes in the design and form of notes should not be made.

Clause 27.—There is at present no machinery for the sterilization of notes and it is unlikely that any will be introduced in view of the comparative simplicity of destroying notes and issuing new ones. We have therefore omitted the first part of this clause.

Clause 28.—We have retained this clause pending examination by a small committee of official and non-official experts, which should meet as soon as possible, of the whole question of the rules regarding payment on lost, stolen or mutilated or imperfect currency or bank notes. We may add that if our recommendation that the Reserve Bank should offer free remittance facilities to scheduled banks between their branches is accepted, the question of the rules referred to above may lose much of the importance that is now attached to it.

Clause 32.—We consider that the remedy proposed in the clause in its original form was inappropriate. If the Bank failed to comply with the requirements of Chapter III or of any other provision of the Act and if, as consequence, it was decided that it should forfeit the right of note issue, it is hardly conceivable that it would command the confidence of the public to such an extent as to be allowed to remain in charge of the other functions entrusted to it by the Act. We therefore consider that in such circumstances a complete reconstruction of the position will be necessary. It is not possible to lay down in advance exactly what steps will be necessary nor do we feel entitled to assume that the liquidation of the Bank will necessarily and inevitably be the only possible course. We therefore think that the right form of provision is one which will give the Government power to make emergency arrangements and lay upon it the duty of consulting the Legislature at the first opportunity, after which further and permanent measures can be settled. We have drafted the clause accordingly.

We think it important to record our view that if a failure by the Bank to fulfil its obligations under the Act is the result of a national emergency or a crisis arising from factors over which the Bank had no control, it would be the duty of the Government to use the resources of the State in maintaining the Bank and tiding over the difficulty.

Clause 31.—We have inserted the words "including bundles" after "drafts" in the proviso so as to make the wording of the proviso conform to the wording in the body of the clause.

Clause 32.—The powers of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class to impose fines are limited to a maximum of Rs. 1,000, so that the wording of the clause as it stood was self contradictory. We have altered it to make the meaning clear.

Clause 33, sub-clauses (1) and (2).—As we stated in our note on clause 2, sub-clause (d), we consider that the fiduciary external assets should be limited to securities of the United Kingdom.

Sub-clause (3).—Some of us have wished to prescribe (a) for the amount of gold at present held by Government in its currency reserves—namely, about 44½ crores—being retained as a minimum, and (b) for maintaining the gold in the reserves at a minimum percentage of 20 per cent, to the liabilities of the issue department. As against this it has been argued by the Government members (a) that even if it might be thought right as a matter of policy, at least in present circumstances, not to part with any of the present stocks of gold, nevertheless a statutory prohibition against dealing in any way with any of the gold may prove unduly hampering on the Bank and so weaken its power to defend the position in case of need that in practice the limitation might prove to be not an added safeguard for the preservation of the reserves but an actual source of weakness, (b) that any percentage provision is in present circumstances entirely unsuitable, for it might force the Bank actually to buy gold at times when such a purchase would involve in any case a heavy book loss owing to the fact that gold has according to the accepted provisions of the Bill to be valued at a price which is about 33 per cent below its present market value) and possibly an ultimate real loss. Those of us who have supported the former views are prepared to accept a compromise in the form of increasing the minimum to 40 crores and that the Government members have stated that they are prepared to accept as part of a general plan which is in other respects satisfactory.

Sub-clause (3).—We have omitted the words "drawn and" as a consequential amendment to the amendment which we have suggested in 17 (2) (a). We also consider that the limitation of rupee securities might prove unduly restrictive. We have therefore altered the word "less" to "greater" and have made additional provision for a further 10 crores with the permission of the Governor General in Council.

Sub-clause (6).—We have omitted sterling securities of the Government of India. We do not consider that these are assets which could properly form part of the external reserves, and there is no need even for their temporary inclusion.

Clause 35.—We have added a proviso to make it clear that at the time of transfer the whole of the gold coin and bullion held by the Governor General in Council or his reserves should be transferred to the Bank.

Clause 36.—As a result of the provisions of the clause which differ from those of the earlier Reserve Bank Bills the Government will be left in possession of a large part of the stocks of silver bullion and rupees which it now holds. The policy of disposing of such silver and the methods of accounting for its proceeds involve important issues which the Legislature should be given an opportunity to consider. We have dealt with the question in the final paragraph to this Report.

Sub clause (2).—We have altered 1/10th to 1/8th because we consider that, particularly in view of the obligations which we are putting on the Bank in clause 33 to make its notes fully convertible into silver rupees, a proportion of 1/10th is too low.

Sub-clause (3).—For the same reason we have altered "may" in sub-clause (2) to "shall."

We have also substituted the words "securities of His British Government" for "securities of sterling standard countries" consistently with our proposals under clause 33.

Clause 37.—The small amendment in this clause is consequential.

We have added a proviso to ensure that the minimum gold holding specified in clause 33 (2) shall in any case be retained as the last reserve. We consider that if the currency reserves had to be drawn upon so heavily that they were reduced to 40 crores a situation would have been created which would in any case require reconsideration of the whole position. In that event we think it of the greatest importance that the Bank should possess at least the minimum holding of gold as a nucleus of reserves with which to maintain the currency position on the new basis which might be settled after such reconsideration. It is because we consider that a stock of gold will in such circumstances be the most valuable nucleus that we think the minimum should be preserved in the shape of gold rather than in sterling securities. In making this recommendation we do not imply that a provision of this nature, earmarking a certain portion of the currency reserves for special treatment, is necessarily suitable as a permanent provision, and we recognise that it may have to be reconsidered when the occasion contemplated in the preamble to the Bill arises and it is possible to frame measures for establishing the Indian monetary standard on a permanent basis.

Clause 38.—We have omitted the word "now" which seems irrelevant in this context.

Clause 39.—We consider it essential that provision should be made to ensure the legal convertibility of the notes of the Reserve Bank into silver rupees. Even though on theoretical grounds such a provision might seem undesirable, we feel that it is much more important to ensure that confidence in the notes of the new institution will not be endangered.

It is, in our view, implicit in this clause that the Bank will create sufficient branches, offices and agencies throughout the country to enable it to fulfil its obligations to supply different forms of currency so as to meet the reasonable needs of the public.

Clauses 40 and 41.—In accepting the provisions of these clauses we have read them together with the preamble and have accepted the conclusions of the London Committee which we think it advisable to restate —

> "In the present state of monetary disorganisation throughout the world, it is impossible to incorporate in the Bill provisions which would necessarily be suitable when monetary systems generally have been reset and stabilised. In these circumstances we consider that the only sound course for India is to remain on the sterling standard. On this basis the exchange obligations incorporated in the Bill must necessarily be in accord with the rupee sterling rate existing at the time when the Bill is introduced. The statement does not, however, imply any expression of opinion on the part of the Committee on the merits or demerits of the present rate. The ratio provisions in the Bill are designed to make it clear that there will not be any change in the de facto situation by the mere coming into operation of the Reserve Bank Act."

The Government members have made it clear to us that their intention in introducing this Bill is merely to create the machinery of a Central Bank and not to ask for any special confirmation from the Legislature of the present ratio. We are prepared to accept the view therefore that the ratio issue does not arise in the present Bill.

Clause 41.—We have added the second proviso with a view to protect the interests of the Bank.

Clause 42.—This is a wide and very difficult clause as it covers entirely new ground and the conditions in India are so diverse that its provisions must be regarded as tentative and may have to be modified by legislation after practical experience has been gained. We have had particularly in mind a certain modification in the form of an extension of the scope of this clause and for this reason have added a new clause 42-A making it incumbent on the Bank to submit proposals for legislation with particular reference to the conditions of indigenous banking.

Apart from this, we consider that the clause in its original form would have been likely to prove unduly rigid in its operation; and in particular that to calculate the average holdings of the scheduled banks from monthly returns might have involved the imposition of penalties in an inequitable manner. We have therefore substituted weekly returns based on the actual figures of a particular working day. We discussed the percentages of 7½ and 2½ with the banking experts. They thought that those proportions were too high but agreed that 5 and 2 would be practicable. We agree and have reduced the proportions accordingly. We further recommend the exclusion of certain liabilities of a more or less technical character from the liabilities on which the minimum deposit has to be calculated. In addition we consider that loans from the Reserve Bank should be excluded from the liabilities as calculated.

In sub-clause (7) we have come to the conclusion that the limit of 3 lakhs is too low and might result in the inclusion of petty firms which do not really fall within the intention of the section. We have therefore increased 3 lakhs to 5 lakhs. We considered whether it would be possible to include together with capital and reserve the amount of deposits as a criterion but came to the conclusion that they are so variable that this would be impracticable. In our view any alteration on these lines must be considered in the light of practical experience. We also consider that when the question of the inclusion of companies is being considered, special care should be taken that companies are not included which are not performing what is really banking business. This should not be difficult for the Bank to decide with reference to each particular case, though it is difficult to draft a general definition of what is banking business and we have not attempted to do so. It may later be found, as a result of practical experience, possible to incorporate such a definition in the statute. We have made consequential amendments in the Second Schedule but we would emphasise the fact that the Schedule is merely illustrative and that it has been compiled on admittedly inadequate material. After the passing of the Bill early intimation should be sent to the companies included in it or to any others the inclusion of which would seem to be indicated by later statistical returns so as to give them ample time to show cause if they consider that they should not be included.

In connexion with this clause we have also considered several representations made by banks and other parties. One is that the repayment of loans made by banks and other parties. One is that the repayment of these compulsory deposits should be guaranteed by Government. We are not prepared to recommend such a provision. It was also suggested that savings bank deposits should be reckoned as time liabilities for the purpose of the calculations in sub-clause (f). We consider that the terms on which savings banks accounts are run by various banks vary so widely that it would be impossible to frame any general rule.

In view of the fact that the Reserve Bank will only have a few offices of its own, it will also be necessary for all scheduled banks to keep accounts with the Reserve Bank at branches of the Imperial Bank as agents for the Reserve Bank. Balances held on such accounts will of course be taken into account in calculating the amount of any scheduled banks' deposits with the Reserve Bank.

Sub-clause (4).—We are informed that it may be difficult for banks in certain parts of the country which have branches in the interior having no easy communication with their head offices to submit the returns prescribed in this clause within the allotted time. We have provided that in such cases the Reserve Bank should have power to extend the period for the submission of the returns.

Clause 42-A.—We consider that a consolidated statement based on the returns collected under clause 42 should be published on the ground that they should be of interest and value to the public. Though the returns of individual banks must obviously be regarded as highly confidential, this consideration does not apply to statistical returns compiled from them all.

To make the returns more complete for statistical purposes we consider that the Government should also furnish the Bank periodically with figures of the amounts of rupee coin, subsidiary coin and notes held at treasuries and sub-treasuries.

Clause 43-B.—We considered whether provincial co-operative banks should be included in the Schedule, but came to the conclusion that though there may be considerable advantages in such a course, the time is not yet ripe for it. We consider, however, that if co-operative banks are to be given the facilities indicated in clause 17, they should submit the same returns as those prescribed for scheduled banks so as to enable the Reserve Bank to see that they are maintaining a satisfactory position.

Clause 43 and the Third Schedule.—We have given very careful consideration after discussion with the representatives of the Imperial Bank and other bankers, to the various issues involved in the Agreement to be entered into between the Reserve Bank and the Imperial Bank of India. We think it necessary to record our views under the following three main headings :—

(a) Remuneration for handling Government Accounts.—On the basis of the figures supplied to us we have reached the conclusion that the terms suggested are reasonable and represent no more than is necessary barely to cover the actual cost incurred by the Imperial Bank in performing these services. We are assured by the Government representatives that these figures were based on detailed and audited statements supplied by the Imperial Bank and accepted by the Finance Department after careful examination of the method of distribution of over-head charges. We think, however, that it would be satisfactory to the Legislature that the basis on which the costs have been calculated should be independently examined by the Auditor-General and that a report by him should be presented by the Government when these provisions of the Bill are under discussion indicating whether in his view the basis on which the costs have been calculated is reasonable and the results of the calculations correct.

(b) Compensation for the keeping open of branches.—We consider that the method proposed in the Schedule of keeping specified minimum balances with these branches either free of interest or at concessional rates is not a satisfactory method for fixing compensation under this head, for the value of such balances must vary greatly according to the rates obtainable for the use of money. It appears to us much more satisfactory that a definite annual payment should be made, based on the losses actually incurred. At the same time it would not be justifiable to settle this compensation for a long period on the basis of present results because it must be anticipated that with the general development of banking in India these branches will become progressively more remunerative. We therefore propose a diminishing scale leading to a termination of all compensation after 15 years. We consider that the figures proposed are reasonable on the basis of the statements supplied to us as to the actual cost of maintaining these branches but in this case also we recommend that an independent check on the calculations should be made by the Auditor-General and included in the report already referred to.

(c) Period of agreement.—We have taken into account the fact that as the compensation for maintaining the unremunerative branches would terminate after 15 years, there would be some advantage to the public in continuing the Agreement beyond 15 years so as to prolong the period during which the Imperial Bank remains under an obligation not to close any of those branches. On the other hand, we consider, first, that a period of 25 years is in any case too long for a commitment of this important nature and, secondly, that the basis on the commission payable for handling Government Account is intended to be based on the actual cost of the services rendered, the rate of commission should be open to recalculation at a comparatively early date. Taking all the foregoing considerations into account, we recommend that the Agreement should run for 15 years subject to termination on five years' notice given at any time after that period, and that the commission payable for handling the Government Account should be reviewed at the end of ten years and thereafter at five-yearly intervals. It should be made clear that the object of such review would be to settle the actual cost to the Imperial Bank, that the commission should be settled on that basis, and that the calculations shall be subject to expert accounting investigation. In the event of any difference of opinion as to terms arising between the Reserve Bank and the Imperial Bank, we recommend that power to settle the terms finally should be vested in the Governor General in Council.

In view of all the arrangements as regards staff, etc., involved we consider that a period of five years for notice of termination is no more than reasonable.

Lastly, there is one important point which should be made clear in this agreement, namely, that it should not in any way preclude the Reserve Bank from opening its own offices or branches at any place where the Central Board may, as a result of experience, find this to be expedient in the interests of the public notwithstanding the fact that the Imperial Bank has up to then acted as its agent at such places.

Clause 43-A and Clause 44 (included in Chapter IV).—We think that the provision in clause 44 for the building up of a Reserve Fund would throw an unnecessarily heavy annual burden on central revenues. At the same time we consider it highly desirable that an adequate Reserve Fund should be available to the Bank in its early years, the main purpose of such a Reserve Fund being to provide a margin against possible depreciation in securities held either in the Issue or Banking departments of the Bank. After careful consideration we have come to the conclusion that the most satisfactory solution would be for Government to start the Bank with the full reserve proposed in the Bill by making over to it the sum of 5 crores in short-dated Government securities—probably treasury bills.

The arrangements for distribution of profits should then provide that this Reserve Fund will always be maintained at the figure of 5 crores.

This change does not involve any substantial recasting of the provisions of the original Bill, all that is necessary being to omit that part of the provisions which covered the period until the reserve had been built up to 5 crores. We have amended the clause accordingly and also included a provision for the initial transfer of the 5 crore Fund by Government, so that this transaction may be covered by a vote of the Legislature.

Clause [44-A].—We consider it desirable to make provision for the exemption of the profits of the Bank from income tax and company super tax, while at the same time providing that the shareholders will have to pay income-tax on the dividends which they actually receive.

Clause 45.—We think it is desirable that the Bank should have power to discount agricultural bills at concessional rates which may be below the rate for the purchase or rediscount of commercial paper. We have therefore altered the words "minimum rate" in this clause to "standard rate."

Clause 42.—We think that the Governor General in Council should also have discretion to appoint the Auditor General or another under this clause if he so desires. We have amended the clause accordingly.

Clause 43.—We have provided that the annual accounts transmitted to the Governor General in Council by the Reserve Bank should be accompanied by a copy of the Directors' report on those accounts.

Clause (43-A).—Though we consider it important that a start should be made on the lines indicated in clause 42, we recognise that the developments at this stage must be tentative. We therefore consider it important that a statutory provision should be included, making it incumbent on the Bank to report at the earliest practicable date and in any case within three years and, if necessary, to prepare proposals for legislation so as to include indigenous bankers and other parties doing banking business in India who are not at present included in the Schedule within its scope subject to such restrictions as the Board may consider necessary. In this report it should also include proposals for the closer linking of agricultural enterprise with the machinery of the Reserve Bank, possibly by the establishment of a separate rural credit department.

We also think that in this clause it would be desirable to include a provision embodying in a more concrete form the principle recognised in the preamble, by placing a definite obligation on the Board to put up proposals for a more permanent currency system for India when they consider that the pre-requisites indicated in the preamble have been fulfilled, that is to say, the international monetary position has become sufficiently clear and stable.

Clause 50, sub-clause (3).—We have added this sub-clause to fill up a lacuna in the clause as originally drafted.

Clause 51.—Some of us are of opinion that the Governor General in Council should have power to purchase the shares of the Bank at the end of 25 years if in the interests of the country as a whole considered desirable to run the institution as a State Bank.

Clause 61, sub-clause (2).—This sub-clause as originally drafted left it doubtful as to whom the power to initiate liquidation proceedings was vested.

Sub-clause (2).—We have added a proviso to limit the amount of the surplus assets which would go to the shareholders in the event of liquidation of the Bank in the early years. We consider that, without some limitation of this nature, the shareholders might, particularly as a result of the proposals mentioned in the note on clause 44 for starting the Bank off with a Reserve Fund of 5 crores, be placed in an unduly favourable position in the event of early liquidation of the Bank. Unlikely though that contingency may be, we have thought it necessary to provide for it. It will be noted that according to the original proposals in the Bill the shareholders would have been entitled to receive 25 per cent of the "surplus assets" on liquidation, and as according to the proposals for distribution of profits those surplus assets could hardly have exceeded the maximum amount of the Reserve Fund, namely, the amount of the share capital of the Bank, the shareholders would under the original proposals also have had no expectation of a higher profit on liquidation than 25 per cent; and this position would only have been attained after several years of working.

Clause 64, sub-clause (2) (ee).—We have added the power to make regulations regarding the fees to be paid to Directors and to members of the Local Boards.

Sub-clause (2) (mmm).—We think it desirable to make special provision for regulations regarding the relations of scheduled banks with the Reserve Bank. In particular, it may be found necessary or desirable for the Reserve Bank to call for further information from them.

Sub-clause (2) (nnnnn).—Though the management of clearing houses is one of the usual functions of a Reserve Bank, we think that it would be as well to make specific provision for the regulations which the Bank will issue in this matter.

Sub-clause (3).—We have added this sub-clause to make it clear that copies of any such regulations will be available to the public on payment.

4. The Government put before us a memorandum * which we have attached to this Report containing their proposals for dealing with three important matters which were recommended for further consideration in

* Appendix A.

India by the Committee which considered the Reserve Bank proposals in London. These matters are :—

(1) The method for dealing with the surplus stock of rupees which are at present held in the Government's currency reserves, but which will under the plan embodied in the present Bill be retained by Government.

(2) The amount of external reserves which should be handed over by Government initially on the formation of the Bank.

(3) The method for dealing with any profit or loss which may result from a revaluation or a sale of the stocks of gold to be handed over to the Bank by Government.

The first of these questions arises as a result of the general plan embodied in clause 30 of the Bill—the effect of which is that, contrary to the plan embodied in the earlier Bills, Government will retain the responsibility in connexion with the silver coinage so that the Bank will not have to carry stocks of silver coin surplus to its own requirements, or be concerned with sales or purchases of silver bullion or any loss which such transactions may involve. While we are prepared to state that we approve of the general plan, we have not had time fully to consider the details of the Government's proposals as regards the methods for dealing with the stocks of silver to be retained by Government nor as regards the matters arising under the other two heads. In the circumstances, as we are bound to present our report on the Reserve Bank Bill by November 20 and shall by that not have completed the function laid upon us by the Legislature in this matter, we can only recommend that the details of the Government proposals should be further studied by the Legislature by such means as it thinks fit.

6. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India, dated the 16th September 1933. We think that the Bill has not been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

APPENDIX A.

MEMORANDUM BY THE GOVERNMENT REGARDING DISPOSAL OF SURPLUS SILVER.

In paragraph 21 of the report of the London Committee on Indian Reserve Bank legislation they made certain recommendations regarding the transfer of rupee coin between Government and the Bank which have been embodied in clause 38 of the Reserve Bank of India Bill, 1933, and as regards certain matters arising out of these recommendations the Committee proposed that they should be further examined in India.

* Subject to a minute or minutes of dissent.

(a) Heading (2) of the arrangement recommended was as follows :—

"Any surplus of rupees which this arrangement would enable Government to remove from the reserve should be held by Government in a separate account, the silver being held as bullion not as coin, subject to further consideration by the Government of India any proceeds from the realisation of such rupees should not be used, except for the purposes specified in (3) below."

The purpose thus specified was the "payment of full value" (40 per cent in external assets) for any further surplus rupees transferred by the Bank to the Government.

(b) The concluding recommendation of paragraph 21 was as follows :—

"We do not propose any alteration in the figure (of external reserves) in the new Bill, but we think that this proportion may not necessarily be adequate and we recommend that the question whether a higher proportion is required at the outset should, before the Bank is set up, be carefully considered by Government in the light of all the prevailing circumstances."

2. In paragraph 23 of their Report they also remarked :

"The possibility would obviously be present that the Bank might gain a large premium on the gold handed over to it by Government. The question as to how such premium should be dealt with, especially in the event of sales being made in the intermediate period pending revaluation of the gold, raises complex practical issues which we have not fully discussed. In principle such profits should belong rather to the Government than to the Bank but our view is that this unrealized margin should in no case be kept available for strengthening the position of the currency reserves. We recommend that detailed proposals should be worked out by the Government of India for consideration during the passage of legislation on this subject."

3. The points thus referred for further examination raise two problems which are closely connected and which, in the opinion of the Government of India, should be treated together. The following appear to be the main considerations which should be taken into account :

(a) The proceeds of any sales of the surplus silver (to be retained by the Government under the arrangement proposed) and of any surplus realized on the sale or revaluation of the gold (to be transferred to the Bank) would represent assets originally accumulated against the issue of currency and as part of the ordinary currency business of Government. Such assets should therefore be regarded as primarily earmarked for currency purposes.

(b) It does not however necessarily follow that such assets should be directly or immediately absorbed in the currency reserves of the Bank, because—

(i) The Government must retain a separate reserve against the liability imposed upon it to pay full value for further surplus rupees which it may be required to take over from the Bank under the proviso to sub-clause (f) of clause 36 [Cf. also the recommendation of the London Committee referred to above in paragraph 1 (c)].

(ii) Reasonable account must be taken of the general financial position of the Government which may react on the currency position. Look at the matter from a practical point of view, it may not be good policy to accumulate excessive funds in specially earmarked reserves, because in the first place this may involve a substantial loss of interest seeing that in normal circumstances it will only be possible to earn a much lower rate of interest on such funds than the Government has to pay on its own public debt, and, in the second place, the general effect on India's credit of repaying outstanding loans may be of greater value than adding to the accumulated reserves (Cf. as an actual example in the past the repayment by the Government of India from its own resources of the £15,000,000 sterling loan in January 1932).

(iii) If the Bank is started off initially with reserves in gold and sterling assets which afford amply adequate cover against its own liabilities, the addition from outside of still further external assets would serve no useful purpose and might even put the Bank into a position of being able with undue ease to expand the currency against rupee assets when that was not justified.

4. The Government of India have carefully weighed the above considerations and I am directed to place the following scheme before the Committee for its consideration :—

(a) The silver which will be retained by Government, whether in rupees coin or bullion, should be regarded as stock purchased by Government from its Currency Department. On the basis of the accounts of the Currency Department on the 31st August 1933 (at which date the silver stocks attained the maximum point reached during the current year) Government after handing over 50 crores of rupees to the Bank would retain rupees and silver of a nominal value of 65,51 lakhs. Against this 57 47 lakhs would be set off the value of the assets of the Gold Standard Reserve, 55 33 lakhs, so that the net debt against the silver thus retained by the Government would be the difference between these two figures, namely, 2 04 lakhs.

(b) The proceeds of any sales of silver after the transfer would be credited to a separate fund more or less on the lines of the present Gold Standard Reserve which it is suggested might be called the "Silver Redemption Reserve." This reserve would be invested by Government in its entirety in gold or sterling securities.

(c) The book loss on sales of silver since the commencement of selling operations is approximately 31,03 lakhs * and this figure must also together with the 2,04 lakhs mentioned under (a) be regarded as a debt incurred against silver. To this debt will also have to be added the full nominal value of any silver rupees returned by the Bank under clause 36 (1) of the B.B. while the full nominal value of any rupees sold to the Bank under clause 36 (2) will be deducted from it. The loss of 31,03 lakhs already incurred is at present held in a suspense account and it will continue to be so treated. Interest and amortisation provisions against the debt represented by this loss and the 2 04 lakhs balance of silver to be taken over together with any further silver which may be taken over will be made in the manner described in the following paragraphs.

(d) Interest on the outstanding loss which is in fact represented by a corresponding portion of the public debt (namely, treasury bills in the Paper Currency Reserve) is at present met out of the revenues of the Government of India. This should continue both for the outstanding loss and any other additions to the silver debt referred to above but the Government of India should be allowed to set off this interest which it recovers from the investments in the Silver Redemption Reserve. In other words, the interest on this reserve will not be added to the reserve but will, as at present, accrue as a receipt to Government revenues.

(e) Provision will also have to be made for the amortisation of the outstanding "silver debt." At present no provision is made for the amortisation of treasury bills held in the Paper Currency Reserve so that in practice there is no amortisation provision for the debt representing losses on account of silver. The Government of India consider that some provision should be made but any plan for this must be dealt with as part of the Government's general plan for Sinking Fund provisions on the public debt—a question which must be dealt with separately.

5. It remains to consider how the funds which would accumulate in the Silver Redemption Reserve should be utilised. The considerations affecting this question have been set out in paragraph 3 above. Weighing up the various considerations, the Government of India consider that it would be a reasonable arrangement to allow the Silver Redemption Reserve to accumulate until it reached a total of 10 crores. Any further receipts should not be separately invested but should be taken direct into Treasury balances to reduce the outstanding "silver debt" described in paragraph 4 (c), i.e., to be utilised for the reduction of debt either by the redemption of existing debt or the avoidance of new borrowing. A reserve of 10 crores in external assets would allow for a return of 25 crores of rupees by the Bank to Government, that is to say the maximum amount which could be returned on five years. This should be adequate for all practical purposes and against locking up funds beyond this reasonable margin must be weighed the consideration mentioned in paragraph 3 (b) (ii) above.

* This is not really in the form mere gloss. It is the figure which represents the difference between the coin of the silver sold as bullion and the face value of the rupees from which the silver was produced. In order to get a true picture of the position there will be balanced against this nominal loss the profits which the Government actually made when the rupees were put into circulation from which profits (after allo, the 55 millions Gold Standard Reserve was built up.

6. As regards the second recommendation of the London Committee [paragraph 1 (b)] of this Memorandum, the Government of India do not consider that it would be practicable at present to decide whether and if so, to what extent the Bank should be provided with external cover in addition to the 50 per cent indicated in clause 33 of the Bill. It is of course understood that the whole of the Government's gold holding will in any case be pooled over. Apart from this, if there should be any margin of other external assets which the Government at the time when the Bank is set up did not consider it necessary to hand over to the Bank and which it would consequently return for its own purposes, the Government of India provisionally consider that the most suitable alternative method for appropriating any such surplus would be to transfer it as an opening balance to the Silver Redemption Reserve proposed above.

7. As regards the third point in paragraph 25 of the London Report (vide paragraph 2 of this Memorandum), the Government of India do not consider it necessary to make any specific proposals regarding the utilization of any hypothetical profits on the revaluation of gold. Such profits might arise in two ways:

(a) There might be sales, in which case there might be a considerable premium representing the difference between the market price and the statutory price as indicated in clause 33 (d) of the Bill.

(b) When the time comes to adopt a permanent currency standard as contemplated in the preamble to the Reserve Bank Bill, the new valuation as compared with the valuation at the old parity as adopted in clause 33 (d) might be such as to show either a paper gain or loss.

8. As regards alternative (a), sales are very unlikely and unless they were for a very large amount, the profit on them would not be sufficient to alter the dividend payable to the shareholders, in which case the whole of the profit on such sales would accrue to Government under clause 46. The Government of India do not consider it necessary to legislate for this highly hypothetical contingency.

9. As regards alternative (b), if there was a revaluation, clause 33 (d) of the Bill would require amendment, in which case it would be open to the Legislature to make a further amendment of the Bill so as to ensure that the whole of the profits or losses on such revaluation would accrue to or be borne by Government. If there were profits, the actual manner in which any such hypothetical profits would be utilized is a still more hypothetical question on which it appears to the Government of India to be even less necessary to formulate any specific scheme. It is obvious that any such paper gain should not be swallowed up in ordinary revenue but should be devoted to some currency purpose and this most probably would take the form of an additional fortification of the Silver Redemption Reserve. That, however, is a matter which could be left to be decided at the time.

10. The Government of India therefore do not consider that any provision need be made in the present Bill with respect to these recommendations of the London Committee but they would suggest that a note might be made in the report, possibly on clause 33 (d), on the lines indicated in the preceding paragraph, regarding the utilization of any book gain or loss on gold, while they would also be glad to have the views of the Committee on the scheme for a Silver Redemption Fund set out in paragraphs 4 and 5 of this Memorandum.

MINUTES OF DISSENT.

I am unable to agree with the Joint Committee in the conclusions they have arrived at on clauses 40 and 41. I do not propose to go into the question of the ratio on its merits. It would be futile to do so, since the Act cannot come into force for a considerable period of time after the Bill is passed by the Legislature. In these difficult times he would be a bold man who would attempt to prophesy what will happen in the world even in a few weeks time. How is it then possible to fix to-day what the ratio should be about a year hence? Many of us have decided views as to what the ratio should be fixed at to-day, but we are not dealing in this Bill with the situation of the immediate present. This is the spirit in which the London Committee dealt with the question, which is clearly shown by the following sentences:—

> "The main provisions in the Bill are designed to make it clear that there will not be any change in the de facto situation by the mere coming into operation of the Reserve Bank Act."

Do the majority of the Joint Committee want us to believe that the 1s. 6d. ratio is likely to be the de facto situation when the Act comes into operation? In the opinion of many well-informed people, there are just as likely, if not more, chances of the ratio having to be changed. The retaining in the Bill of 1s. 6d. ratio under present circumstances is in my opinion not carrying out in the spirit the London agreement. I suggest that the rate should be the de jure rate of the day before this Act comes into force.

In clause 43 I suggest that the period of the agreement with the Imperial Bank should be ten years subject to termination on five years' notice given at any time after that period. This will give the Imperial Bank an agreement for fifteen years certain.

We have signed the Report.

We however regret to note (1) that Madras has been assigned shares to the value of only 70 lakhs and (2) that Madras is to have only one Director on the Central Board. As one of the major Presidencies it is entitled to be provided with more capital and to have two Directors.

Clause 5 (1) (c).—We find it necessary to dissent from the proposal that it shall be provided in the Act that the Governor of the Reserve Bank must be a man of "tested banking experience covering a period of at least five years." While we fully endorse what has been said in the main report as the importance of the Governor being a man who can command the confidence of the business community in India, we feel that the qualifications proposed as actually worded will not necessarily ensure this result and may prove extremely embarrassing in practice. The qualifications and experience required for the head of a Central Bank are quite different from those which are necessarily acquired in commercial banking, while if experience of the latter is the only qualification, a five year period would be quite inadequate. The experience of many countries goes to show that men of quite different training have been selected for and proved successful in central banking, and the present heads of the important Central Banks would have been excluded as ineligible under the qualifications proposed by the Committee.

Clause 33 (2) and clause 37.—The recommendations made in the main report and embodied in these clauses as regards the holding of gold in the currency reserves are based on the ideas that gold at present forms the most suitable form of currency reserves, and, that practically the whole of the present stock of gold held by Government ought to be preserved and not dissipated in defending the present sterling standard. While we feel that such ideas have force, and while we recognise the strength of Indian sentiment in this matter, we consider that, so far as statutory provisions are concerned, these should not be so framed as to hamper the discretion of the Bank to utilise its currency reserves in whatever manner may be most effective for maintaining the stability of the currency. In exercising this discretion it would of course be right for the Bank to take account of Indian sentiment, for any disregard of that might react on public confidence the maintenance of which is a vital factor in the security of the position—a factor of perhaps even greater importance than the actual currency reserves. But it is quite a different matter to convert the recognition of these points into a statutory limitation on the Bank's powers. The mere possession of powers even if they may always be kept in reserve is a strengthening factor, and the more clear of such powers may be a weakening factor. We are prepared, as stated in the main report, to agree to the minimum gold holding being raised to 40 crores as a compromise if thereby agreement can be obtained to a general plan for the organisation of the Bank which is in other respects satisfactory, but we should not, except for this purpose, be prepared to accept this figure which we consider to be an undue limitation on the Bank's discretion, and we must record our dissent from any proposals to go further than this by provisions in clause 37.

GEORGE SCHUSTER.
J. E. TAYLOR.

We, the undersigned Members of the Joint Committee to which the Reserve Bank of India Bill of 1933 was referred, have considered the Bill and the Report, and wish to append the following remarks of dissent on the points on which we are agreed, while reserving ourselves to append individual notes on other points.

The proposed Bank should be a State Bank.

During the discussion of the Reserve Bank Bill in 1927–28, the Assembly accepted the principle of a State Bank by passing unanimously section 4 of the Joint Select Committee Bill. This question was again discussed in 1931 by the Central Banking Enquiry Committee and it also recommended unanimously that the Bank should be a State Bank (Pages 418–419 of the Report). It is now incumbent on the Government to give a convincing reason for going against the unanimous decision of the Assembly and unanimous recommendation of the Banking Enquiry Committee. It is regrettable that even such of those Members of the London Committee as were associated either with the Joint Select Committee of 1927, or the Central Banking Enquiry Committee and were thus committed to a State Bank have not chosen to enlighten the public as to the exact reasons for their present preference for a Shareholders Bank. The country was entitled to expect a clear lead from them. In the absence of such a lead, we find that the new proposal is being placed without the supporters of the Shareholders Bank discharging the onus of proof that lies on them for going against a scheme unanimously approved by the Legislature and strongly supported by all sections of Indian public opinion.

The only two arguments which the Government can advance for changing the unanimous finding are—

(1) A Shareholders Bank is the only form of bank which will provide Directors from an electorate free from political influence.

(2) In most countries of the world, Central Banks are Shareholders Bank.

We would like to examine closely both these arguments. The experience about the election of Directorate of Companies clearly shows that shareholders as an electorate do not exercise any material influence. The Directors manage to get themselves re-elected. In fact, they form a coterie and keep perpetual power in their own hands. The coterie is formed by the promoters who nominate the first Directors.

"The Directors practically exercise the right of appointing other Directors and they get their action confirmed or passed by the annual general meeting."

This was verified by Sir Osborne Smith in the following question and answer * with regard to the Imperial Bank:

Q. Do you know of any occasion on which anybody has been elected in a general meeting of a Director without the back-door influence of nomination list by the Directors?

A. I have no recollection of it.

Secondly, the Reserve Bank deals with problems which cannot be fully dissociated from politics and it is impossible to remove political considerations. The Bill itself does not attempt to remove the political influence of the Secretary of State. The Bill really denies the influence of Indian politicians and utilises the influence of the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State represents politics just as much as the future Indian Minister; and hence the subscription of one for the other does not secure the freedom from political influence, which is claimed by the Government. In either case the Secretary of State will have determining voice, but in case of Shareholders Bank, he will be restrained from the criticisms of the Indian public and of legislature.

* Footnote by the Honourable Sir Owen Schuster (Chairman).

These discussions were informal conversations which were only loosely recorded, and circulated in order to refresh the memory of members. They have not been checked by those who took part in the discussions and cannot be regarded as accurate records.

OWEN SCHUSTER.

As regards the second argument, there are several countries in the world, notably Australia and Sweden, whose Central Banks are State Banks. During the recent serious perturbances the Governments of many countries were forced to assume greater responsibilities in the currency policies of their countries; and the position of the world is such that no one can safely predict the future trend of monetary policy and the working of the Central Banks. In fact, the theory of Central Banks is in the melting pot; and the other countries may have to follow America in the Government taking active and effective part in the control of their monetary policy. Consequently the argument in regard to the example of all or countries has not much force until the conditions of the world are settled down and we know the nature and significance of the profound changes that are taking place. Even in England, the Conservative Government are finding it necessary to effect changes in the administration of the Bank of England with a view to allow greater voice for the Treasury.

We now put forward the following considerations as positive and definite arguments in favour of a State Bank:—

(1) It is an admitted fact that the Government is compelled to assume almost entire responsibility in the administration of Central Banks at the time of financial crises. The Central Bank functions smoothly only during normal times; for normal working, shareholders are as much unnecessary as the State. It is the Governor of the Bank that counts.

(2) The State Bank will always command greater confidence within a country like India than a Shareholders Bank.

(3) Almost the entire profit made by the Reserve Bank will be derived from the resources and support of the State; and it is, therefore, desirable that the tax-payers should be benefited to the fullest possible extent from the profits so derived.

(4) It is an established fact that shareholders do not form a satisfactory electorate. No shareholder residing in mofussil would take the trouble of spending money in travelling in order to exercise his right of vote. The use of proxies will be unavoidable; and election by proxies does not necessarily represent electorate.

(5) In the case of a private bank, there will be no machinery to demand and enforce larger recruitment of Indians in the officers and subordinate grades. It is only in the case of a State Bank that Indianisation as a policy can be effectively enforced, as is evident from our experience of Railway Administration.

We regret that the possibility of establishing a bank on the basis of Stockholders Scheme, which was put forward by Mr. S. Srinivasa Iyengar, the Leader of the Opposition in 1927, and approved by Sir Basil Blackett, the then Finance Member, has not been sufficiently explored. It is a scheme about which Sir Basil said that—

> "It is one that appeals to the Government and that they themselves are prepared to accept."

In these days of financial uncertainty, this type of Reserve Bank would best suit the country as it could, at any future date, if and when circumstances demand, be easily converted either into Shareholders Bank or State Bank.

The Stockholders' Scheme is appended hereto. We, therefore, recommend that the Reserve Bank should be preferably an out-and-out State Bank on the model of the Joint Select Committee Bill of 1927 or, in the alternative, a Bank on the Stockholder plan indicated above.

In case our proposal for a State Bank is not accepted by the legislature, we insist that following modifications are indispensable:—

Not less than three fourths of the Directors or members of the Local Boards should be native Indian subjects of His Majesty.

The External Capital Committee, of which Sir Basil Blackett and Sir Charles Innes were members, accepted unanimously this just principle.

The Reserve Bank should be established on its own branch in London, which should hold entirely the foreign balances and reserves of the Government of India. (Messrs. Mr. Basu and Mr. Rup Saran Das dissent from this.)

We are of opinion that every shareholder should have one vote for each share with a maximum of 10 votes.

Reserve.

In determining the amount of Reserve and especially the nature of external reserve, we also had consider three important factors—

1. Paper notes in circulation (amounting to Rs. 180 crores).
2. The silver rupees in circulation, which are really notes printed on silver.
3. Our annual external obligations, which amount roughly to about Rs. 70 crores.

It is difficult to determine exactly the amount of silver rupees in circulation or the exact amount of external obligations; and in view of the fact that the holders of rupees are as much entitled to demand sterling as the holders of the paper notes, and that the external reserve should be large enough to provide for the payment of our external obligations in an year of adverse trade balance, we suggest that the initial external reserve should be 50 per cent. of the liabilities instead of 30 per cent. as suggested in the Bill.

As a result of the Hilton Young Commission proposals, the External Reserve was to have been Rs 118 crores. Our present suggestion asks for an external reserve valued, at the outset, at Rs. 106 crores (with gold stocks valued at old parity, i.e., the same rate as in Hilton-Young Report)

As in connexion with the agreement between the Imperial Bank and the Reserve Bank, it has been agreed that the Imperial Bank should offer internal remittances to the scheduled banks free of currency chests free of charge, we suggest that, as a result of this step, the scheduled banks should make inter-branch transfers for their constituents free of charge. In other countries a cheque of any bank is cashed at any other bank without discount. Facilities of this kind will greatly increase the velocity of money in circulation.

For purposes of branch banking development and to give impetus thereto, the Reserve Bank should maintain a list of approved banks. These approved banks must be confined to banks registered in India and satisfying certain minimum criteria as regards the capital and Balance-sheet position. Any approved bank opening a branch at a centre where there is no branch of an approved or scheduled bank should be entitled to an interest-free deposit of Rs 3 00,000 from the Reserve Bank for the first two years, and Rs. 2,00,000 for the next two years.

Ratio.

We do not agree with the opinion that the ratio question is outside the province of the Reserve Bank Bill. The Reserve Bill will be responsible for maintaining the exchange within prescribed limits. This responsibility is part calarly important in the case of India as she has definite, recurring, large external commitments.

This fact is being fully appreciated in devising the plan for a Reserve Bank for New Zealand. Since England went off gold standard, New Zealand pound has depreciated by 10 per cent. But in planning the scheme of the Reserve Bank, the authorities realised that in view of the Bank having to fulfil the external obligations of the country, the depreciation of 10 per cent. was not enough. It has now been decided to have a further lowering of the ratio by another 10 per cent. In the same way, the ratio is, we are convinced, part and parcel of the proposal to establish the Reserve Bank of India.

In our opinion, the eighteen pence ratio has done great harm to the country. The gravity of the harm done can be realised from the fact that India, which enjoyed, almost uninterruptedly, a favourable balance of trade in merchandise to the extent of about Rs. 90 crores per annum, had only a merchandise surplus of Rs. 3.36 crores in 1932-33.

Out of the normal surplus, India was finding it possible to meet her recurring external obligations and also to import treasure for the requirements of the population. Our foreign commitments are now being met by the export of 'distress gold.' This export cannot continue for long. Unless adequate measures are adopted to restore the favourable balance of trade in merchandise to the level of our foreign commitments, the Reserve Bank will be faced with an embarrassing situation right at the commencement as soon as the exports of gold cease or fall off.

We are definitely of the opinion that in view of the successful way in which countries like New Zealand and Australia have brought about favourable balances of trade by depreciating their currencies, India, too, should lower her gates before inauguration of the Reserve Bank.

Since September, 1931, pound sterling has been allowed to depreciate to a level which the British Monetary authorities deem suitable in relation to Britain's economic conditions. By linking the rupee to sterling at the same old level, it is assumed that economic conditions are the same in both countries. If this were so, the movements in the Index of wholesale prices in India should correspond to the movements in the Index in the United Kingdom. But actually it is not so. The Index of wholesale prices in the United Kingdom has gone up by 3½ points between September 1931 and August 1933. On the other hand the Index in the case of India has gone down by three points during this period. This disparity of 6½ points is a grave matter and shows conclusively that the rupee is over-valued.

The Government have admitted the extreme importance of raising the prices but no practical steps have yet been taken to achieve this object. In our opinion, the lowering of the ratio is the necessary first step to achieve this object.

RAM SARAN DAS
GAYA PRASAD SINGH.

I have signed a note of dissent already. But I like to append this note of mine on a few points.

From the very commencement of the deliberations of the Committee it became apparent that the Committee will have to work under a very great handicap. The present Bill was drafted on the report of the Committee on the Indian Reserve Bank, which sat in London under the chairmanship of some person whose name has not been disclosed to us. This report was obviously based upon the recommendations of the Federal Structure Sub-Committee of the First Round Table Conference, where the Secretary of State for India had given the undertaking that "representative Indian opinion will be consulted in the preparation of proposals for the establishment of the Reserve Bank." It is not clear why this Committee sat in London. The "representative Indian opinion" was taken to mean certain nominees of Government in whose selection no chamber of commerce or representative economic interest of India had any voice.

Indians under the present subordinate position have to work under a distinct disadvantage. But this disadvantage was further increased in this Committee when we found that Government of India, constituted as it is predominantly British in outlook, was not given the freedom of discussion. This created an atmosphere of distrust in the Joint Select Committee. Some of us in spite of ourselves had always to be on our guard against the "British Raj." Where intellect and reason should have been directed to discover the solution of the problems that the Reserve Bank scheme demanded, we were ever kept alert to watch India's interest lest that be subordinated to the economic needs of Great Britain. The wires between Delhi and Whitehall were constantly kept busy, and the rod of the Great Mughal hung over the Committee deliberations like the sword of Damocles. The majority report was greatly influenced by the attitude of the Whitehall, and, hence, its conclusions should be accepted with reserve.

* I do not agree to the portion of this minute dealing with the question of ratio.

I want to make it perfectly clear that I should not be understood to cast any reflection upon the attitude of the Chairman. The Chairman gave us all the latitude in fully discussing the various problems on their merits. He was very considerate, and sincerely tried to guide us with his expert knowledge and ripe experience. But though his hand was with us, the flesh was working under the same limitations.

After the Bill was referred to the Joint Stock Committee, on the 5th of October, 1933, Sir Samuel Hoare is reported to have made the following statement before the Parliamentary Select Committee:

"We are asking the Indian Legislature by its own legislation to carry out arrangements that we say are essential for bringing the constitution into being. Obviously of that arrangement is to take effect it cannot be possible for the Indian Legislature at some future time to alter the conditions without which constitution would not have come into operation without the previous assent."

This statement filled us with some doubts about the desirability of our being a party to that legislation under the conditions in which the Secretary of State. Consequently, some members of the Committee drew the attention of the Chairman to the statement and requested him to clear the position. The Chairman promised to do so, and on the 31st October 1933, issued the following press communique.

"With reference to the reports which had appeared in the press as to the statements made by the Secretary of State in the Joint Select Committee on the question of powers of amendment of any Reserve Bank legislation, the Finance Member made the following explanation to the Joint Select Committee on the Reserve Bank Bill this morning:

There has evidently been some misunderstanding as to the scope of the Secretary of State's answers to Lord Rankeillour which were concerned only with a technical point raised in the course of the discussion on another subject and did not imply any change of view or policy, so far as the Secretary of State was concerned, as to the power of amendment of the Reserve Bank Act by the Indian Legislature subject to the prior consent of the Governor General. There is no intention under the present proposals that the British Parliament should undertake legislation amending the Reserve Bank Act. According to the White Paper proposals this would be the function of the Indian Legislature subject to the prior approval of the Governor General. The technical point with which the Secretary of State was concerned arises in the following way.

The Constitution Act will have to contain an Adaptation clause laying down how, when the constitutional changes at the Centre take place, the powers to be exercised by the Governor General in Council under the Reserve Bank Act will have to be exercised in the new constitution. If the British Government's proposals for the constitution are accepted by the Joint Select Committee and if the Constitution Act in the Adaptation clause were to declare that certain powers exercisable by the Governor General in Council under the Reserve Bank Act were to be exercised in future by the Governor General at his discretion and if in future it were desired by agreement that any particular power or powers thus provided for should be exercised by the Governor General on the advice of his Ministers and not at his discretion, then legislation giving effect to that would be an amendment of the Constitution Act and not of the Reserve Bank Act and could be undertaken by no other authority than the British Parliament unless the Constitution Act itself provided for this contingency. The question is now being considered whether such a provision can be included in the Constitution Act, and that is the point of doubt to which the Secretary of State was referring in his replies."

We carefully studied it and were not satisfied with the reply. So twelve members of the Committee handed over the following statement to the Chairman.

"We have carefully considered the statement that you made on the evidence of the Secretary of State on October 5, 1933. We think it essential and necessary that in future the Indian Legislature should have the right to amend the Reserve Bank Act from time to time as it suits the interests of and conditions in India. We are agreeable to accept the condition that the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, which in future constitution should only mean Governor General with the advice of his Ministers, should be obtained for amending or repealing this Act, but we cannot accept that the Legislature should be handicapped in this matter by being asked to secure the sanction of the Governor General at his discretion, Secretary of State for India or the British Parliament. We consider this right to be of such a fundamental character as to render the deletion of the Bill much less important. If the Indian Legislature of the future is denied the right to take such matters into consideration as may be approved of or permitted by the Governor General on the advice of his Ministers, the Reserve Bank will be fettered in having down the Currency and Exchange policy of India. Unless the matter is cleared up to our satisfaction, it will be our duty to advise the Legislature not to proceed with the consideration of the Reserve Bank Bill."

No satisfactory reply has been forthcoming since the statement was handed over to the Chairman. The constitutional position has not been clarified, so I will humbly request the House not to proceed with the consideration of the Reserve Bank Bill until and unless the constitutional position is made clear.

Freedom from Political Influence.

The Central Bank is essentially a nation's bank and hence it must be "sui generis, it must be as Indian as the Ganges." It follows from this that the proposed bank should be free from all foreign influences. As this bank is to control the currency and credit of the country, it is comprehensible that its working should be kept scrupulously free from all sorts of political influence and particularly from the ever changing party governments, so that any Finance Minister may not be tempted to manipulate the currency to the requirements of an unbalanced budget. The Bill though ostensibly aims at such a safeguard, it does not in fact provide a shield against political influences. A cursory glance at the various clauses of the Bill reveals that while Indian political influence is done away with, British political influence has been introduced, which is likely to make the Whitehall the controlling factor of the currency policy of the bank; and it is feared that the Bank of England may assume the role of a dictator. The Governor General in Council, which in future constitution may mean Governor General at his discretion, has been given power under the Bill to have a final voice in the appointment of the Governor and the two Deputy Governors and in nominating four members to the Central Board. Thus a position of advantage has been secured to the Governor General, who will in future be in a position to exercise 30 per cent of votes in the Central Board.

The Governor being the Chairman of the Board will exercise very great power and influence over the deliberations of the Board, and thus practically the political influence of the Governor General will be felt at every stage of the deliberations of the Central Board. Therefore, to say that the Bill eliminates all sorts of political influence in to say that which will not be the fact. An all-embracing reserve bank scheme is likely to be a source of very great national harm. If we are unable to keep out all sorts of political influence, the next best alternative is to adopt the scheme of a state bank, so that the legislature should have a watching eye over its working.

Discrimination.

During the course of our deliberations the Chairman had drawn the attention of the Committee not to put anything in the clauses of the Bill, which might have the appearance of discriminating against Britishers residing in India. We were reminded of the provisions in the White Paper and the deliberations of the Parliamentary Select Committee regarding discriminatory legislation. I think when some of us demanded that 75 per cent of the shares of the bank should be held by Indian nationals and that the Central Board should have the same percentage of Indian directorate, we were not in any way enacting anything which may be called discriminatory legislation. It was a simple case of what in another sphere of legislation under executive action is known as Indianisation. It is hardly possible in India even at this stage of development to enact any discriminatory legislation against Great Britain. The proclamation of Queen Victoria of 1858 was not a proclamation embodying any discrimination against Britisher, but rather it was an announcement that thenceforward no discrimination would be used against Indians in securing higher jobs in Government services, though we know that the provisions of that proclamation have not yet been given effect to though India has always been till to-day trying to get out of the disadvantageously attitude of the British Imperial policy in India. If we now provide safeguards in our banking legislation that is to unduly affect the economic interests of this country we only do so so that like the Central Banks of all other countries, the Indian Central Bank may be predominantly Indian in outlook, in its constitution and in its working.

SANT SINGH.

Besides the other notes of dissent which I have signed with other members I wish to note a few more points in which I disagree with the majority of my colleagues. I further reserve to myself the right to move amendments to the Bill on points which are of minor nature and which are not noted below.

1. Should the shareholders scheme get the approval of the House I would suggest some other formula as an alternative to the scheme of 75 per cent reservation for the Nationals. I advocate the division of the capital into equal parts of Class A and B shares: A to consist of hundred rupee shares and reserve for India subjects of His Majesty, Class B to be available to all those mentioned in subclause 3 of clause 4 and the shares being of rupees 500 each. Holders of two shares having one vote with a maximum of ten votes to each person. I have suggested the above scheme to meet the demand of market ability and full saleability of the shares which was greatly stressed in the Committee.

2. The suggestion in our report on clause 8 that the Governor General should exercise his powers of nomination to get representation of co-operative banking interest does not satisfy me. I would rather recommend a system by which the apex banks would select a panel of three names and then submit it to the Governor General in Council who would nominate one of the three to the Central Board of the Bank.

3. The powers vested by sub-clause 14 of clause 17 in the Bank to borrow money in India is an innovation upon central banking practice and in effect an inconvertible state of affair. The Bank can under no circumstances require money to sustain the credit from outside at a moment when they wish to operate. They can recall loan, sell securities, or transfer assets to the Issue Department and thereby get back any redundant money that might be in circulation. Therefore borrowing power should be confined to places outside India.

4. Though we have accepted 40 crores of gold holding on old parity, I strongly object to the exclusion of sterling securities from the list of the approved securities of the Issue Department. The advantage accruing from market operation in securities in reducing the rate of interest payable on Government accommodation is well known. We have to borrow money in London so often that it is desirable that our credit in London should be unfettered. If the disastrous experience of six months before, when Government after successfully floating a loan of 3½ per cent in India had to borrow within ten days money in London at 4 per cent is to be guarded against and not repeated, it is essential that the Bank should deal in sterling securities. While not insisting upon their inclusion in the external assets my proposal to include them in the external assets was also turned down. It is a cold comfort be think that the Bank can in Central Banking Department operate in this line of business. The practice of central banking is to keep the greater part of their holdings in interchangeable securities, therefore in effect this provision will be more or less a dead letter. I am therefore left with no alternative but to suggest that the whole of the surplus profits dealt with in section 44 should be handed over to the Governor General in Council in the form of terminable sterling Indian loans for cancellation.

5. If lower ratio is not acceptable to the Government under clauses 40 and 41 I advocate the omission of these two clauses, and thereby emphasise the temporary nature of the provision as brought out in the preamble. It will be a return to the position in which we were before 1927, when Government was under no legal obligation to buy or sell exchange at any given figure. Maintenance of 18d. ratio will be too great a strain for the Bank and with the first adverse or inadequate trade balance its resources will be crippled, and it may even prove unable to maintain the ratio. Its failure on the other hand is bound to retard constitutional reform, therefore it is not advisable to subject it to the unbearable strain of maintaining the exchange.

6. In regard to the provisions of section 42 regarding the inclusion in list of scheduled banks of only those concerns which have paid-in capital and reserves, as in my opinion unjustifiable. The Reserve Bank should take into account the deposits as well, as the compulsory deposit in the Bank is into account the deposits as well, as the compulsory deposit in the Bank is dependent upon scheduled bank's liabilities to the public. The result of the dependent upon scheduled bank's liabilities to the public. The result of the present system is to give a backhand to Mysore Industrial Bank of Bangalore present system is to give a backhand to Mysore Industrial Bank of Bangalore with a total deposit of forty three thousand and refuse its facilities to Bhawith a total deposit of forty three thousand and refuse its facilities to Bhawanipore Bank of Calcutta which has a deposit of more than thirty two lakhs. I therefore advocate an additional qualification in sub-clause 6 to include all those banks who have a deposit amount of more than ten lakhs in their hands.

7. In clause 67 I wish to so amend the Indian Coinage Act so as to make rupee coin a legal tender up to Rs. 100 only, and thereby popularise notes, and indirectly help the return of rupee coin to the Issue Department. It might further reduce the popularity of rupee and thereby help us in the long run to establish a sounder basis for the currency.

HOSSAIN IMAM.

We, the undersigned members of the Joint Select Committee, to which the Reserve Bank of India Bill of 1933 was referred, beg to append the following Minute of Dissent to the Report that we have signed

In our opinion the provision in clause 42 of the Bill to the effect that the Scheduled Banks should deposit 5 per cent and 2 per cent of their demand and time liabilities respectively should not be made by an enactment of the Legislature, but should be left to the convention that would grow up between the Reserve Bank and the member banks after the Reserve Bank is established and working. We desire to point out that the banks in India do not control the monetary position of the people and the country and that such deposits will tend to lower the dividends of Indian Banks and create other difficulties between such banks and their constituents without attaining the object for which the deposits are designed.

Since it has now been decided by the Committee that the Reserve Bank should take steps at the earliest practicable date and in any case within three years of its establishment to bring the indigenous bankers into the Reserve Banking system, we consider that only after the indigenous bankers have been linked up with the Reserve Bank, the question of compulsory deposits from the Scheduled Banks should be properly and usefully taken up for consideration.

The November 17, 1933.

We must also give pointed expression to the strong and widespread feeling in the country as regards the most important constitutional issue affecting this Bill, we mean that "Legislation which affects the coinage and currency of the Federation, or the powers and duties of the Federal Reserve Bank in relation to management of currency and banking" can be undertaken by the Indian Legislature only with the consent of the Governor-General "given at his discretion," which means, as laid down in the White Paper " under the directions of one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State." This will imply under the direction of the British Cabinet, who will be naturally dominated by the London city or other foreign interests and influences. We are, therefore, of opinion that if the provision in the White Paper will not be modified it will not confer even the shadow of financial autonomy with the establishment of the Federation. When we bear in mind that the life of the Bill will run almost a generation we cannot but hold that an institution which will have at its inception such obvious limitations will hardly "ensure confidence in the management of India's credit and currency," for the institution will fail to work as India, for India, and by Indians. In the event of no satisfactory assurance being forthcoming, we have a right not on that to recommend to the Legislature to reject that the Bill be not proceeded with.

The November 17, 1933.

In the other joint minutes of dissent we have set down the major points of disagreement with the majority report. We have touched here other points that we deem it our duty to bring to the notice of the Assembly.

I. In omitting provision of definition of "sterling standard countries" in section 3 (d) the Committee was influenced by the pressure of public opinion. The dream of London financiers to create "sterling standard countries" since England and a few other countries went off the gold standard in September 1931, has ended in smoke and in spite of Indian Currency being tied down to the chariot wheel of sterling under compulsion, India is in no mood to accept a paper sterling standard. Further, owing to discriminating policies adopted against India and India is by most of the British Dominions, India has no desire to help those Dominions directly or indirectly in their financial credit and throughout the Bill every attempt has been made to compel the Reserve Bank to deal in sterling securities of the United Kingdom.

Similarly, section 4 (c) has been redrafted to exclude citizens of any British Dominion which discriminates against Indians to hold shares of the Reserve Bank. It ought to be provided that the Governor General in Council should notify in the Gazette of India along with the publication of the Reserving Bank Act, the names of such Dominions that must be excluded. South Africa is the greatest sinner in this respect. Next comes Canada. We suggest that the Government of India should appoint a small committee to enquire if Australia and New Zealand can really be given equal facilities along with the citizens of the United Kingdom. We would prefer for the sake of national self-respect of India the Reserve Bank should not hold as assets of the Issue Department stocks or securities of such Dominions. Sec. 99.

Sec. 4 (c).

II. Our colleagues sign ing the majority report place sublime faith in the desirability of distributing the shares and the voting rights attached to them as widely as possible. Yet, in the same breath, they d equality and sterilize votes of so many shareholders by providing one vote for a holder of 5 shares of Rs. 100 each, which means that all shareholders holding 1 to 4 shares will have no voting power. The most democratic provision should be "one share, one vote" and "one person, one vote." Our colleagues have been more anxious for the convenience of would-be-directors than widening the franchise. Sec. 9 (3).

III. The Joint Committee Report of 1927 provided for one Governor and one Deputy Governor and specified in the body of the Bill that "one of those two shall be an Indian." At that time it was given out that the first Deputy Governor would be an Indian who would become full-fledged Governor after five years. Sec. 5 (1 b) & (2).

We dissent from the change agreed to by our colleagues that there should be two Deputy Governors from the beginning. No reasons have been adduced that work will be too heavy for one Deputy Governor. In 1927 there was a talk of an Indian Assistant Deputy Governor. We are of opinion that there should be only one Deputy Governor for the present and that he should be an Indian sufficiently young to become Governor after five years. There should be no camouflage of appointment of a supernumerated Indian as Deputy Governor for there would then be no chance of that Indian becoming a Governor.

We further wish to record here the strong public feeling against any I.C.S. being appointed Governor or Deputy Governor of the Reserve Bank. The financial financial policy of civilian Finance Members should serve as a grave warning against their inclusion.

Sec. 17 (3A). IV. The omission of the word " persons after the words " scheduled banks " is fraught with serious consequences. We believe there are certain banks " is fraught with serious consequences. We believe there are certain firms on the approved list of the Government of India to-day—such as Ralli, Grams on the approved list of the Government of India to-day—such as Ralli, Volkarts, etc.,—who buy and sell sterling at better rates to Government, Volkarts, etc.,—who buy and sell sterling at better rates to Government, not only the rates in these transactions but this practice has had a wholesome check not only the rates in these transactions but this practice has had a wholesome check on the Exchange Banks who will be debarred from combining to put the on the Exchange Banks who will be debarred from combining to put the rates high. See on It has been amended to give power of direct discount rates high. See on It has been amended to give power of direct discount to the Bank when special occasion needs it. We wish to ensure to the Bank to the Bank when special occasion needs it. We wish to ensure to the Bank the fidelity of dealing with other " persons " in normal times. Too much the fidelity of dealing with other " persons " in normal times. Too much attention has been paid to the vested interests of London Stock Brokers attention has been paid to the vested interests of London Stock Brokers and Exchange Banks and we strongly urge that the Legislature will rectify and Exchange Banks and we strongly urge that the Legislature will rectify this mistake. this mistake.

Sec. 18. V. How far Indian States are entitled to consideration from the Reserve Bank depends entirely on the sound financial position of individual States. Bank depends entirely on the sound financial position of individual States. Sec. 17 (2B). We think it would be a grave risk of political considerations outside some We think it would be a grave risk of political considerations outside some States such facilities. Knowing as we do the instability of life and property States such facilities. Knowing as we do the instability of life and property in some of these States, we doubt if the States would be prepared to disclose in some of these States, we doubt if the States would be prepared to disclose to the authorities of the Reserve Bank their real financial position. We urge that the Reserve Bank should not work as financial agents of any State urge that the Reserve Bank should not work as financial agents of any State that does not manage its public finances on sound principles and that does that does not manage its public finances on sound principles and that does not possess a sound constitutional administration. not possess a sound constitutional administration.

VI. Our recommendations for the offer of free remittance facilities on the VI. Our recommendations for the offer of free remittance facilities on the Scheduled Banks should be incorporated in the Regulations of the Reserve Scheduled Banks should be incorporated in the Regulations of the Reserve Bank and should take form one of the clauses in the agreement of the Reserve Bank and should take form one of the clauses in the agreement of the Reserve Bank with the Imperial Bank Bank with the Imperial Bank

We have to point out that our apprehensions are based on the little solace. We have to point out that our apprehensions are based on the fact that as the present ratio must be maintained by the Reserve Bank the Sects. 33 & 37. fact that as the present ratio must be maintained by the Reserve Bank the assets of the Issue Department will be frittered away to keep up the forced assets of the Issue Department will be frittered away to keep up the forced ratio of 35*d*

This point was strongly brought out in the course of evidence before us This point was strongly brought out in the course of evidence before us and the following extracts* give us a nutshell what the country fears. and the following extracts* give us a nutshell what the country fears.

' Sir Purushotamdas Thakurdas : In any stress or emergency is it intended that if gold is reduced in proportion the following penalty laid down in the section comes in ? It does not mean parting with gold.

Chairman (Sir George Schuster) : It might mean parting with gold if you go down below 25 per cent. of your reserves. If you go down to 20 per cent., you have to part with some of your gold. * * *

Sir Purushotamdas Thakurdas : If the Committee decided to fix a figure as the minimum, whether it is 35 or 40, then at any rate that part of the gold cannot be touched.

Chairman : If it really cannot be touched, we have always said it might just as well be at the bottom of the sea. As a matter of fact you might remember that you yourself and in London that obviously if a crisis should occur, then it would require parting with gold. * * * * * * * * *

Mr. Hosain Imam : It should be touched as a last resort after exhausting all other sources.

Sir Cowasji Jehangir : We desire to have a provision that whatever minimum may be put down, it shall not be touched until all other resources are exhausted.

Chairman : If it is never to be touched, it might never be there at all. It may be necessary to use it in the last resort and then to make it up again * * * * * * * * * *

Sir Purushotamdas Thakurdas : Is it the intention that in order to maintain the ratio it will be permissible to the Reserve Bank to part with its gold ?

Mr. Hosain Imam : Yes.

Sir Purushotamdas Thakurdas : Then that is one thing against which I want protection. I think until the bank has proved its merit people would rather sit on their gold.

* Extracts by the Honourable Sir George Schuster (Chairman) :

These discussions were informal conversations which were only hastily recorded, and are quoted in order to refresh the memory of members. They have not been checked by those who took part in the discussion and cannot be regarded as accurate records.

GEORGE SCHUSTER.

Chairman But it would be an absurd post on to say that once you put gold into the reserves it should never be taken out * * * I entirely agree as a matter of fact with Sir Purshotamdas that a point would arise at which it would be obviously useless to continue the fight and it would be much better to preserve your resources, so that you have got something with which to start, but if you tie your hands absolutely if you give yourself no latitude if you lay down in the Act that in no conceivable circumstances can that parts ular portion be touched, then you run a risk that it as a basis perhaps for arranging credits, which might help you in carry on."

Our considered views are that the minimum gold reserve of 40 crores should never be touched. The proviso in Section 37 (1) only strengthens our force that a shareholders' bank with an irresponsible Central Board and an autocratic Governor (who will not be an Indian from the beginning) is not the right machinery to establish the credit of India in its best interests.

VIII. The right remedy lies in the only revision of the ratio. The Indian members of the London Committee slurked this part of their responsibility, when they stated in the concluding paragraph of their London Report,— Section 40 (A) (2).

> "A considerable majority of the Indian Delegation feel it their duty to record their view that a suitable exchange ratio is one of the essential factors for the successful working of the Reserve Bank. They point out that considerable changes have occurred in the currency basis and policies of almost all the countries of the world in the last few years. In their view it is for the Government of India and the Legislature to examine these and all the other relevant considerations with a view to ensuring that the minimum possible strain is placed on the currency system of India."

The majority report gives seven reasons for maintenance of the present ratio at 18d. The new Clause 40A (2) provides that the Bank (which for this purpose will mean the Central Board) when it is of opinion that internal and monetary position has become sufficiently clear and stable to make it possible to determine what will be suitable as a permanent basis for the Indian monetary system and to frame permanent measures for a monetary standard it shall report its views to the Governor General in Council." This does not meet the demand of the public which is for an immediate alteration of the ratio. The public therefore expects the Central Board to do its duty to the country with the least possible delay, so that the Government will be compelled to take necessary measures for establishing a really suitable ratio and a permanent monetary standard.

VIDYA SAGAR PANDYA.
B. DAS.

In addition to the joint note of dissent with my other colleagues I regret I cannot see eye to eye on the following points incorporated in the Bills:—

(1) The Act shall remain in force for 25 years and the Legislature will have no power to amend it as members will have to seek permission of the Governor General in Council and the Secretary of State before introducing any amendments and such permission will never be given if it is inconvenient to them [clause 1 (4)]. I must, therefore, insist on the Legislature retaining power to make alterations on its own initiative

(2) There ought to be a limit of Rs. 25,000 the maximum holding of shares by a single shareholder. In case it is not done the capitalists who have tons of money and are now prepared to invest at about 4 per cent will purchase shares for large amounts. They will thus acculine votes and deprive the agriculturals and middle classes of having any hand in the Bank. This will defeat the very object and the Bank will soon pass into the hands of capitalists. Moreover they will encourage and induce market manipulation so as to enable them to reap large profits by premiums thereby brought about. (Clause 6)

(3) Instead of five centres there ought to be seven centres at places where currency offices are located at present, namely Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, Rangoon, Lahore, Cawnpore and Karachi. India is a vast country and hence the analogy of the central banks of other countries does not fit in. Besides there are countries which have got regional branches and it makes little affected if the number is increased from five to seven to serve the agricultural and industrial portions of Northern India. Besides the change will not entail any additional expenses too, rail or it may prove to be cheaper in the long run. These currency offices will have to be manned under the present scheme as well as with a little addition and alteration in the staff, can be easily converted into Reserve Bank centres. Moreover as there are business on two they will save a lot from the amount which will have to be paid in commission to the Imperial Bank. No expenditure will have to be incurred in the construction of Governor and Deputy Governors should be made by the Governor General in Council from a panel of six names recommended by the directors of the Central Board and out of these three posts, at least two should be held by the natives of India [Clause 8 (a)].

(3) Out of the four directors nominated by the Governor General in Council at least two should definitely represent the agricultural and co-operative interests. India being an agricultural country, must have adequate representation from that class [clause 8 (b)].

(6) There should be ten instead of five elected members on Local Boards to give adequate representation of different interests, specially because they will form an electoral college to elect directors of the Central Board [Clause 9 (ia)].

(7) Sub-clause (4) of Clause 11 should be omitted. The object of disqualifying members of the Central and Provincial Legislatures is only to avert political influence from the Bank. But if the Secretary of State and his representative the Governor General comes in places more than the number of the clauses of the Bill, the very object for which the sub-clause was inserted, is defeated. Surely he is the head of the biggest political party. Besides under the new reforms number of the members of the Local and Central Legislatures will be more than doubled and so we shall be depriving our best men from one of the two places. The directorship of the Reserve Bank is an engagement for about 10 to 12 days in a year which can be very easily afforded by members of Legislatures.

(8) The directors should elect their own chairman to preside in meetings instead of the Governor or Deputy Governor who are merely executive heads to carry out their decisions. The practice is prevailing in the Imperial Bank of India and there is no reason to depart from it [Clause 13 (2)].

(9) The Governor General in Council should appoint a committee of three or five persons in the first instance to note shares, make allotments of shares and carry out elections of Local and Central Boards and the day the Boards are completely elected, they should retire automatically. If the whole Board is nominated in the first instance, there is every danger of these persons forming a coterie and getting themselves re-elected [Clause 10 (4)].

(10) The words "or a provincial co-operative Bank" should be inserted after "schedule Banks" in sub-clauses 1 (c) and (d) of Clause 17 to enable them to get equal advantages of purchasing, selling and rediscounting bills and promissory notes which the schedule banks shall derive. The words "or loans and advances" be also inserted after "cash credit" in 4 (c) of the same clause to give them facility to co-operative institutions.

(11) Agreement with the Imperial Bank of India.—The terms offered to the Imperial Bank are very much on the side of generosity which it has not justified by its deeds and are practically the same as were offered in 1927–28 Bills in spite of the fact that it since then, has taken advantage of the progress and expansion of five years more. It has totally refused to make advances on immoveable properties and has failed hopelessly to satisfy public expectations in the way of developing a bill market in India; it has not provided adequate finance to industry and agriculture, it has practically withdrawn its facilities to the co-operative institutions and failed to develop banking capital in the country. India is an agricultural country and it was but proper to expect that a quasi-government bank which had all their resources at its disposal, will do its best to render every possible help. In support of this argument I shall quote two sentences from the Central Banking Enquiry Committee Report (page 143):—

"The Policy of the Imperial Bank of India in regard to the grant of financial assistance to some of the provincial and central co-operative banks seems of late to have undergone a definite change and it is stated that it shows today a much smaller measure of readiness to help them than it used to do in the past. We consider that free remittances of funds for co-operative purposes is of the utmost importance to the co-operative movement and that no attempt should be made to curtail the privileges under the rules of the Government of India in that matter."

The payment of compensation to the Imperial Bank for 'disappointed expectations" was made out by the London Committee. The clause is unprecedented in the banking history of the world and is preposterous. The agreement with the Government under which it opened 100 branches was made for ten years only and expired in 1931. It has hence not only exceeded the time of agreement by two years but established in first position in India owing to the Government backing and the enormous balances held free of interest.

In my opinion, the future agreement should be made on the following conditions if it is to act as sole agent of the Reserve Bank :—

1. The period of agreement is to be fixed for 10 years according to 1920 agreement.
2. It should get a commission of 1/16th of one per cent on the first Rs. 100 crores and 1/8th of one per cent on the remainder.
3. (a) During the first two years from that bank it shall have one crore free of interest of 2 crores at 2 per cent.
   (b) During the second two years it shall have 50 lakhs free of interest and 2½ crores at 2 per cent.
   (c) During next two years, it can have Rs. 3 crores at 2 per cent.
   (d) in subsequent years Rs. 3 crores at a rate of interest settled by the Reserve Bank.

MATHURA PRASAD MEHROTRA.

The 18th November 1933

I have signed the Report of the Joint Select Committee appointed to consider the Reserve Bank of India Bill, 1933, subject to the following remarks :—

It is unfortunate, but it cannot be denied, that, so far as the Muslim community is concerned, it cannot, in the existing conditions in India, rest content, with safety, on mere assurances on the protection of its interests in assuring for it its due weightage in public institutions such as the Reserve Bank. In the circumstances, while the introduction of communal, or racial, controversy in the measure making for the establishment of the Reserve Bank is reprehensible, I shall not be doing my duty as a Muslim representative from Bengal if I do not express a desire to see some provision made in the measure for ensuring that the Muslim community should be given adequate representation in the Central and Local Boards. This reservation would not have been necessary, but discussions affecting the appointments of the Governor and two Deputy Governors have led to an estimate from the official members that provision will be made for securing one of the three appointments for a qualified Indian. Muslims would, therefore, naturally desire to be afforded an opportunity, of proving their capacity for holding one of these appointments, which will be earmarked for Indians, in relation with members of other communities in India. Keeping in view the economic condition of Muslims, it is also desirable that there should be a definite provision in the Reserve Bank Act assuring to them representation, as has been done in the case of agriculturists, in Central and Local Boards. This is essential if the Muslim community is not to be economically isolated.

I am also opposed to the imposition of such restrictive qualifications as the appointment of the Governor as in Section 8 (1-A). To confine the appointment of those with "tested banking experience covering a period of not less than five years" would exclude many who, without actual banking experience, might have unquestioned and authoritative position in the world of commerce. Steps should be taken to see that men of acknowledged authority as financiers are not excluded from holding office as Governor simply because they have not served in a bank for five years.

In regard to the ratio question, I, in common with the other signatories of the Report, accept the assurance that it is not the intention of the Bill to raise the ratio issue. At the same time I think it will serve a useful purpose, if I record it as my firm conviction that it is necessary that the Government should take steps to review the entire policy affecting the currency system in India, with a view to prevent the violent changes that have been taking place from time to time in the currency system of the country. This is not the time to make any comment on the currency position in the world about which the highest financial experts are not in a position to express any definite opinion, an exhaustive enquiry should be instituted for establishing India's currency on a sound basis in relation to sterling.

MAHMOOD SUHRAWARDY.

NEW DELHI,
The 15th November 1933.

At the very outset we desire to make it clear that it is absolutely essential, for acceptance of this Bill, that Governor General in Council shall mean only Governor General as advised by ministers in charge of Finance. It has been generally accepted that the Reserve Bank should be free from all political influences, both in India and England and all the power in this Bill in the hands of the 'Governor General at his discretion' that will mean only his being dictated by the Secretary of State for India who would primarily be guided by the interests of the rule of London. We have not received any assurance from the Government till the signing of this report that they accept the above interpretation about which we made a representation to the Chairman of the Joint Committee. Unless the assurance is forthcoming in the House we recommend the Bill should not be proceeded with.

State v. Shareholders' Bank: Indian public opinion for various reasons demand a state bank and it is difficult to realize why the Government is so much against the idea of a state bank when they themselves accepted that very principle in a state bank in 1927. The main object of the Indian Reserve Bank should be the control and management of the currency and credit of India to the best interest of the country. Almost all the essential powers have been centralized in the hands of the Governor General in Council in the present Bill. The present scheme of a shareholders' bank as embodied in the Bill does not achieve its main object unless the possibility of the domination by the Secretary of State is entirely removed. The main objection, so far advanced, to a state bank is the difficulty of securing a proper Board of Directors, who would be free from political influence. Certainly the obstacle is not insurmountable. Government can easily ensure the independence of such a board, as they do in the case of the highest judiciary in the land. The Government's own attempt to reorganize the Railway Board, making it free from political interference, is a proof positive that they can do the same thing in the case of a state bank if they so desire. If after their appointment, the directors are kept free to act in the best interest of the country, we see no reason whatsoever why a state bank should not be feasible and practicable. For all these reasons we definitely come to the conclusion that, to serve the best interest of the country, the proposed Reserve Bank should be a state bank, and we, therefore, recommend for its acceptance.

Control by natural born Indians: We fully realize that there is a very strong public feeling in the country that the shares of the Reserve Bank and its control should remain in the hands of the natural born Indians. We agree with that view and we believe that the purpose has been attained by the provisions of the amended Bill. In order to assure that object we further recommend that Government should carefully watch the situation so that the expectations may not be frustrated.

Limitation of holding of shares: We prefer to fix a maximum limit for holding of shares of the Reserve Bank at rupees twenty thousand, with a view to prevent concentration of shares and thereby avoid domination by a powerful few.

London Branch: It is our decided opinion that the Reserve Bank must have a branch in London from the beginning to keep it free from the domination of the Bank of England and also to provide facilities for training of Indians in international money market. Besides, India, unlike other countries stands on a different footing, inasmuch as she has to meet enormous payments in the shape of Home charges.

Branches in India: On the question of starting of branches in Lahore, Karachi and Cawnpore we keep an open mind and do not wish to say anything except mentioning that there are at present currency offices in all these centres involving a large amount of expenditure and that official members of the Committee also agreed that Reserve Bank branches, if opened in those centres, may not entail a great additional expenditure.

Exchange Ratio:—We have decided views on the present exchange ratio that is not in the best interest of India, we are, therefore, unable to accept fixation of any ratio by Statute. We would, therefore, prefer it to be left to be settled on the report of an Expert Committee and which should subsequently be confirmed by Legislature.

Period of Agreement with Imperial Bank:—The period of agreement with the Imperial Bank, in our opinion, should be 10 years, instead of 20 years, subject to its abolishment by six months' notice given any time after that period, thus providing the Imperial Bank with an agreement of 15 years certain. We recommend that the terms of agreement with the Imperial Bank should be further scrutinized in June being finally accepted by the House.

Buying up shares by Government:—We are also of opinion that Government should have the right to buy up all shares of the Reserve Bank after reasonable lapse of time.

There are certain other minor details which we do not like to refer in this Note but with it we will be at liberty to bring before the Assembly

Chapter II, Clause 4 (2 & 3).—The Reserve Bank should have a branch and a separate register of shareholders in Lahore also. The areas mentioned in 3 (c) should be so split up that the whole of the Punjab, N.W.F.P., Baluchistan, Jammu and Kashmir, and the Punjab States now attached to this centre. The great importance of Lahore from the banking point of view may be gathered from the following facts:—

(a) That the centre of the Mercantile, Northern India branches of the Imperial Bank of India, has been shifted from Delhi to Lahore.

(b) There are in Lahore a large number of Indian and exchange banks and the Head Office of more than one important bank.

(c) The indigenous Banks in the Punjab including the Co-operative Banks control resources of nearly 20 crores.

(d) The Co-operative movement in the Punjab is particularly strongly developed and there is an extensive ramification of financially sound Co-operative Central Banks.

(e) The Punjab, being an important agricultural province, where stocking of wheat, cotton and oil-seeds at all help practised, may need extensive facilities from the Reserve Bank as contemplated in section 17.

(f) The close proximity (32 miles of Amritsar)—a very important commercial centre in Northern India where investment against stock as well as foreign exchange business is carried on an extensive scale, is a further argument in favour of establishment of a Branch of the Reserve Bank at Lahore. The establishment of a Branch of the Reserve Bank in such an area would inspire confidence and give an assurance to the Banks and the Commercial community in this part of the country that the Reserve Bank is something real and not a phantom institution functioning through the Imperial Bank. Moreover, rediscount facilities to be really effective must be obtainable at the door. If an office of the Reserve Bank is not established in the Punjab the impression will go abroad among the Punjab Banks that the Reserve Bank was an institution that had given them absolutely nothing in return for compulsory deposits. The additional cost on account of a branch in Lahore will be inconsiderable. The currency office, now located in Lahore, would no longer be required, and this means that what is now spent on the currency office will be set free for the Reserve Bank branch. Moreover, I understood the Honourable Mr. Taylor to say that the amount payable to the Imperial Bank on the basis of 1/16 on turnover would be roughly Rs. 1 lakh for Lahore. The opening of a branch of the Reserve Bank there is likely to result in a saving. For a centre so important as Lahore where a branch would not mean any heavy additional cost, the mere agency of the Reserve Bank would not suffice. A Branch is essential. The same arguments apply to opening of a branch at Cawnpore and at Karachi.

Notice—Clauses 40 and 41, I feel, should be amended as follows :—

Delete in Clauses 40 and 41 words after "at a rate" down to "rupee."

Substitute "at a rate to be fixed by the Governor General in Council subject to approval of the Central Legislature before the rates comes into force."

My contention is that the reason which prevented the London Committee from re-admitting the Reserve Bank to any particular limits of exchange valuation for sterling Gold or Sterling are present more or less as they existed in the world at large as in fact they are much worse than it was prior and subsequent to the World Economic Conference the period in which the London Committee sat for its deliberations. "There is not any disorganisation through out the world has been on the increase", as I there is no immediate prospect of "monetary system" being restored or stabilised". Some of us there hoped that world forces, then working, would have brought about the stabilisation of currencies for the time the Reserve Bank Bill was introduced in India. But of our hopes have been belied. It all the more shows that the world recognises that India does not justify binding the Reserve Bank to any higher and lower limits of ratio so far ahead of its commencing business. If the proper limits are the most feasible when the Reserve Bank is about to commence business, the Governor General in Council will have no difficulty in fixing it and in securing its confirmation by the Central Legislature. On the other hand, if conditions are otherwise, the Central Legislature will not have let itself itself, and the Reserve Bank so far ahead in the maintenance of what to all intents and purposes must seem fictitious and more or less speculative rates. My amendment, if accepted, therefore, makes the position much easier for the Government, and is likely to remove many of the genuine doubts and suspicions of the people.

18th November 1933. RAM SARAN DAS.

In the majority Report on section 42 (c) the Central Board is asked to prepare, within three years, proposals for the closer linking of agricultural enterprise with the machinery of the Reserve Bank. It seems to me that the significance of this principle must be widened and further emphasized. The Central Banking Enquiry Committee have made various suggestions for the expansion of our banking system so as to meet and cater to the needs of industry and agriculture, and the committee have indicated that the Reserve Bank should be the core and centre of the banking system and should take a lead in the reforms and measures necessary for expansion. Industry in India is in need of urgent and immediate help if this country is to make any progress and is to find a solution for the menacing unemployment problem. Agriculture is in a sorry plight and also needs immediate assistance. It should, therefore, be laid down that the Reserve Bank should, on the basis of the Banking Enquiry recommendations, put forward within three years, definite proposals for adequate facilities being made available for industry as well as agriculture.

It is agreed that the citizens of such Dominions as do maintain any measure of discrimination against India should not be allowed equal privileges in India. I maintain that the power to decline allotment or transfers to the Nationals of such Dominions must rest in the Central Board and that the vesting of such power in any other authority will be depriving the Central Board of its legitimate authority and power.

Power to require returns from co-operative banks.

42B. The Bank may require any provincial co-operative bank with which it has any transactions under section 17 to furnish the return referred to in sub-section (2) of section 42 and if it does so, the provisions of sub-sections (4) and (5) of section 42 shall apply so far as may be to such co-operative bank as if it were a scheduled bank.

Agreement with the Imperial Bank

45. (1) The Bank shall enter into an agreement with the Imperial Bank of India which shall be subject to the approval of the Governor General in Council, and shall be expressed to come into force on the date on which this Chapter comes into force and to remain in force for fifteen years and thereafter until terminated after five years' notice on either side and shall further contain the provisions as set forth in the Third Schedule :

Provided that the agreement shall be conditional on the maintenance of a sound financial position by the Imperial Bank and that if, in the opinion of the Central Board, the Imperial Bank has failed either to fulfil the conditions of the agreement or to maintain a sound financial position, the Central Board shall make a recommendation to the Governor General in Council, and the Governor General in Council, after such further enquiry as he thinks fit, may issue instructions to the Imperial Bank with reference either to the agreement or to any matter which in his opinion involves the security of the Government or the assets of the Issue Department in the custody of the Imperial Bank, and in the event of the Imperial Bank disregarding such instructions may declare the agreement to be terminated.

(2) The agreement referred to in sub-section (1) shall, as soon as may be after it is made, be laid before the Central Legislature.

The following Report of the Joint Committee on the Bill further to amend the Imperial Bank of India Act, 1920, for certain purposes, was presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 20th November, 1933 :—

WE, the undersigned, members of the Joint Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Imperial Bank of India Act, 1920, for certain purposes was referred, have considered the Bill and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

2. We first met in Simla on the 19th September 1933, to elect our Chairman and settle some preliminary points of procedure. We then met in New Delhi and sat continuously from the 23rd October until 16th November 1933.

3. The clauses of the Bill have been renumbered but the original numbering which it is hoped may prove convenient to refer to in the Report has been reproduced in the margin of the Bill as now printed.

4. We deal below with the Bill clause by clause :—

Clause 2.—We have made a verbal alteration here.

Clause 4 (2).—This deals with section 10 (2) of the Imperial Bank of India Act. We see no reason for the retention of sub-section (2) (b) of that section relating to the opening of new branches because it seems to us to be sufficiently covered by provision 3 of the Third Schedule to the Reserve Bank Bill.

We also consider that there should be some provision on the analogy of sub-section (2) (a) giving the Governor General in Council power to terminate the agreement between the Reserve Bank and Imperial Bank if the latter should not maintain a satisfactory financial position or if there should be a breach of the agreement between the two. We consider, however, that the place to provide for this is in the Reserve Bank Bill and have added an amendment accordingly to clause 42 of that Bill. We therefore recommend the abolition of the whole of section 10 (2) of the Imperial Bank of India Act.

Clause 6A.—We have made two minor amendments—

(1) consequential on the omission of the Explanation in section 13 of the Act proposed in clause 6 of the Bill, and

(2) adding to the definition of "co-operative societies" in view of the fact that there are now several Provincial Acts dealing with such societies.

Clause 6B.—We consider it desirable that the Imperial Bank of India should follow the same practice as ordinary companies in submitting its principal register of shareholders to the officer who performs the duty of registration of companies under the Indian Companies Act, 1913.

Clause 7A.—We consider that the title "Governor" should in future be reserved to the Governor and Deputy Governors of the Reserve Bank and that the words "Managing Director," "Deputy Director" and "Director" should be substituted for the words "Managing Governor," "Deputy Governor" and "Governor" wherever they appear in the Imperial Bank Act.

Clause 9.—We recommend the following amendments in section 28 of the Act which deals with the composition of the Central Board :—

(1) With the abolition or reduction of the Directors nominated by Government the Board will be too small to ensure effective representation of all the interests concerned and we recommend that a third Director should be elected by each Local Board to represent it, in addition to the President and Vice-President.

(2) To ensure the representation of interests which might otherwise be unrepresented, primarily agricultural, the Governor General in Council should retain the right to nominate Directors to a number not exceeding two. This right need not be exercised if these interests secure representation through election.

(3) In view of the important Government financial interests involved Government should maintain a liaison officer in place of the Government officer who is at present a Governor of the Bank. This officer should be entitled to attend all Board meetings—though without any right to vote—and to be supplied with all the information which he may desire as to the Bank's affairs. Though we recognize that in future the relationship of the Imperial Bank will be primarily with the Reserve Bank and not with Government, we consider that such an officer is necessary and that he should be appointed by Government and not by the Reserve Bank.

Clause 18A.—We have made some amendments consequential on our amendment in 7A.

We have made a verbal amendment to make section 31 (1) (c) clearer.

Clause 11.—We considered a suggestion that the Imperial Bank of India should be authorised to make direct advances against immovable property. In support of this suggestion it was pointed out to us that at present the Bank was in the habit of making advances upon the security of immovable property as collateral and that in certain cases these advances are allowed to become in effect advances on the security of immovable property. We consider that it should not be the business of the Imperial Bank to make advances on the security of immovable property as such a practice might involve locking up its funds in a manner inconsistent with its functions and inhibiting as a deposit Bank. We do not therefore accept the suggestion to enlarge the powers of the Bank in this respect. If, however, this principle is accepted then it must be consistently observed not only in the letter but in the spirit. We should consider it an abuse of this principle if the Bank were in any case to make advances which although they might nominally be made within the limits laid down and on approved securities were nevertheless really made not on such justification but in reliance on the possibility of taking charges on immovable property as collateral. We consider that it should be one of the duties of the Government liaison officer nominated under clause 9 of the Bill to watch whether there is any abuse by the Bank of the powers in the manner described above and to report the matter to the Government of India for such action as may be necessary.

We also considered in this connexion a proposal to provide in the Act for the making of advances against promissory notes of Central Co-operative Banks. We did not think it necessary to make any such specific provision as we were assured by the representative of the Imperial Bank who appeared before us that legitimate business of this kind was covered by their present powers to give fixed advances against two-name paper.

Clause 11 (1) (a).—We have made an addition to enable the Bank to hold shares of the Reserve Bank of India which they as a scheduled bank will be permitted to do by clause 4 (3) (c) of the Reserve Bank Bill.

Sub-clause (c).—After discussion with other bankers, the representatives of the Imperial Bank agreed to delete fully paid shares of companies with limited liability from the proposed sub-clause (iii a) and we have amended the sub-clause accordingly with a further consequential amendment in sub-clause (d).

Sub-clause (ee).—We have made drafting amendments to make the present position clearer.

Sub-clause (d).—Vide comment on sub-clause (c)

Sub-clause (ee).—In the Reserve Bank Bill we have recommended an amendment to enable advances to be made to finance seasonal agricultural operations for a maximum period of nine months as against six, the period indicated in the original Bill. The Imperial Bank wished to have a similar latitude and we agree that this is desirable

Sub-clause (hh).—This power has been given at the request of the Imperial Bank of India.

Sub-clause (j).—Vide comment on sub clause (ee)

Sub-clause (j-i).—Vide comment on sub-clause (ee).

Sub-clause (z).—Vide comment on sub-clause (ee). This drafting amendment has been made at the instance of the representatives of the Imperial Bank to make the position clearer.

Clause 11-A.—The amendment in this clause has been made at the instance of the representative of the Imperial Bank of India with a view to making regulation 8 more easily workable in practice.

Clause 12.—We do not agree that the Bank should have the power which the Bill in its original form would have given them to decline to register the transfer of fully paid shares. This is not a right which we consider it desirable that they or any limited liability company should possess.

Clause 13.—We have made a verbal amendment.

Clause 16.—We have made a verbal amendment and substituted the word "Director" for "Governor" wherever it appears—vide comments on clause 7A.

Clause 17.—We have added a sub-clause to bring the procedure for the requisition of special meetings into accord with that prescribed in the Companies Act by fixing a limit within which the Directors must summon a meeting, failing which the shareholders will be able to convene one themselves. In this clause we have also made consequential alterations occasioned by the amendment proposed in clause 7A.

Clause 19.—We have made amendments consequential on the amendments proposed in clause 7A.

Clause 20.—We have made amendments consequential on our recommendation in clause 2 relating to the nomination of Directors by the Governor General in Council

Sub-cla use (c).—We have made an alteration at the instance of the representatives of the Bank to make it clearer how the limitation on simultaneous membership of the Central or Local Boards should apply.

Clause 21.—Here too we have made an amendment consequential on the substitution of nominated Directors suggested in clause 9. We have also made alterations consequential on our recommendation in clause 7A.

Clause 22.—The Central Board of the Imperial Bank has represented to us that it is inconvenient to hold meetings of the Central Board as frequently as once in every three months. We have amended the period to four months accordingly but have provided that there shall be four meetings during the year. We have made other amendments of a drafting nature to make clearer the intention of this section and to carry out the alterations indicated by us in clause 7A

Clause 24.—We have made provision here for the election of the third member of the Local Boards which we have recommended in clause 8. We have also omitted the proviso as unnecessarily restrictive. In sub-clause (2) we have also proposed two minor amendments with the object of making the intention clearer.

Clause 26.—We have added the routine power at the request of the representatives of the Imperial Bank. We have also made a verbal amendment consequential on our recommendation in clause 7-A.

Clause 30.—We do not consider it reasonable that this should be restricted to British India and have substituted "India" accordingly.

5. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India, dated the 16th September, 1933. We think that the Bill has not been so altered as to require republication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended

MINUTES OF DISSENT.

We, the undersigned members of the Joint Committee, to which the Imperial Bank of India (Amendment) Bill of 1933 was referred, beg to append the following Minute of Dissent to the Report that we have signed.

As regards clause 9 of the Bill we are of opinion that in section 28 (4) power should be given to the Local Boards to elect an alternate member in the place of any one of the members of such Local Boards, who may not be able to attend any particular meeting of the Central Board, instead of the provision of electing an additional member as suggested in the Report.

We further desire that the power of nomination given to the Governor General in Council in section 28 (c) should be made mandatory, and the word "may" should be changed into "shall".

We also desire that sub clause (c) of section 28 should be deleted and power may be reserved in the Central Board to permit the Secretaries of the Local Boards to attend the meetings of the Central Board to give such information that the Central Board may require.

November 17, 1933.

I dissent from the suggestion of the Committee in the final draft that loans should not be advanced on the security of immovable property. The Committee first decided by the majority of votes that such loans should be advanced but this question was allowed to be re-opened on the 15th November on the representation of the Imperial Bank at a time the draft report was being discussed. The Joint Committee then reversed its own finding. The procedure of reopening the question was unique in this case, as any suggestion of reopening the question, that out of the two posts of a Governor and a Deputy Governor one should go to Indian, was ruled out of order.

The recommendation in prohibiting the Imperial Bank from advancing loans on the security of immovable property has placed the landlords at the mercy of Bohras and other money lending classes who charge exhorbitant rate of interest, sometimes amounting to 30 to 40 per cent. As a result of this exhorbitant rate, the land is passing very quickly from landlords to money-lenders, and the price of land has fallen by an amount of 50 per cent. There are no land mortgage banks functioning in the manner the Central Banking Enquiry Committee recommended. Wherever these mortgage banks exist, they are ineffective.

If the advances on the security of landed property may not be made for a longer period, which I strongly urge, they should at least be made for a period of 6 to 8 months as contemplated in clause 12 (1) (c) of the Bill. Even this short period loan will tend to lower the local rate of interest and will give great relief to the landlords and specially in Bengal and other parts of India where lands are sold in default of payment by a day only.

Now I come to the agriculturists who get their help mainly through Co-operative institutions. The Imperial Bank unfortunately has withdrawn and is daily curtailing its facilities to these institutions. This fact was fully brought out in the evidence before the Central Banking Enquiry Committee.

The Secretary, Madras Central Bank, Ltd., in his evidence said —

"The Imperial Bank of India is virtually withdrawing the existing cash credit facilities on the banking of co-operative paper."

The Managing Director, Bombay Provincial Co-operative Bank, said —

"The Imperial Bank of India's policy in regard to the grant of credits to the co-operative movement has undergone a change for the worse recently." (Page 183.)

The Bombay Provincial Banking Committee Report (pages 177-78) states —

"It was brought to our notice that the Provincial Bank, for the last 12 years had a cash credit of Rs. 4 lakhs (even the Imperial Bank which had not been of much use but which served as an ultimate fluid reserve. This was curtailed some two years ago and has now been stopped altogether."

The Honorary Secretary of the All-India Co-operative Institutes Association, Bombay, in his memorandum submitted (pages 77-78, Vol. II) as follows :—

"For sometime, the Imperial Bank used to grant credits to Co-operative Banks but of late the policy has changed for the worse and the credits have been reduced, stopped and in some cases only allowed on hard terms . . . As things stand at present, therefore, the Imperial Bank is not serviceable to the Co-operative Banks."

The Central Banking Inquiry Committee on the above evidence made the following observations :—

"The policy of the Imperial Bank of India in regard to the grant of financial assistance to some of the provincial and central co-operative banks seems of late to have undergone a definite change; and it is stated that it shows to-day a much smaller measure of readiness to help them than it used to do in the past . . . The ultimate result, therefore, of the action of the Imperial Bank will probably be to make money dearer to the agriculturists. . . . We feel that the change of policy to which we have referred is unfortunate, especially at a time when the co-operative movement is growing in vitality and is extending the scope of its activities, towards the social and economic uplift of the rural population and when its financial needs are, therefore, likely to increase rapidly."

It is evident that the present policy of the Imperial Bank is detrimental to the interests of both the landlords and the agriculturists who form about 75 per cent of the population of this country. In such important matters verbal assurances have no force. There should be statutory provision for such assistance. I, therefore, recommend that a definite sub-clause (ee) be added in Schedule I (a) as clause II (dd) of the Bill :—

"Promotes of the Co operative Credit Societies registered under Act II of 1912 or by another law for the time being in force in British India relating to co operative societies."

There is no justification in giving special facilities to the Imperial Bank, if it refuses to assist agricultural interests in this country.

MATHURA PRASAD MEHROTRA.

We, the undersigned, are of opinion that there should be a clear and definite provision in the Imperial Bank (Amendment) Bill of 1933 to the effect that the Imperial Bank should be authorized to make advances on the mortgage of immovable properties. The present position of landowning classes throughout the country owing to continued economic depression has come to such a pass that it is highly incumbent upon the legislature to enact such a provision to afford them some relief otherwise the disaster which may overtake them will have serious repercussions on the Government of the country.

I.A. BILL No. 47 OF 1933.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, the Indian Finance Act, 1931, and the Sea Customs Act, 1878, for certain purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, VIII of 18 the Indian Finance Act, 1931, and the Sea Customs Act, 1878, for the pur- VIII of 18 poses hereinafter appearing : It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Indian Tariff (Second Amendment) Act, 1933.

Amendment of the Second Schedule to Act VIII of 1894.

2. (1) After Item No. 40A of the Second Schedule to the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, the following item shall be inserted, namely :— VIII of 18

(2) In sub-item (1) of Item No. 41 of the said Schedule, after the word "thermometer" the words "is not suitable for use as an illuminant in wick lamps," shall be inserted.

Amendment of the Second Schedule to the Indian Finance Act, 1931.

3. After Item No. 40A of the Second Schedule to the Indian Finance Act, 1931, the following item shall be inserted, namely :—

"40-B	Mineral Oil included in Item No. 40B.	Nine pies per Imperial gallon."

Insertion of new section 195A in Act VIII of 1878.

4. After section 193 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, the following section shall be inserted, namely :— VIII of 18

Power to make rules for determining whether mineral oil is suitable for use as an illuminant.

"195A. (1) When by any law for the time being in force a duty of customs is imposed on mineral oil which is specified as being suitable or as not being suitable for use as an illuminant in wick lamps, the Chief Customs Authority may make rules for determining in disputed cases whether any mineral oil is or is not suitable for such use.

(2) In particular such rules may—

(a) specify the design, construction and materials of test lamps to be used for testing the burning properties of mineral oil in wick lamps and provide for the standardization of such test-lamps ; and

(b) prescribe the manner in which and the persons by whom tests are to be carried out and the standards to be accepted for deciding whether any mineral oil is or is not suitable for use as an illuminant in wick lamps."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to amend the Import Tariff so as to apply the rate of duty now prescribed for kerosene to all other mineral oils (except motor spirit) which evince, when tested by a standard lamp, a prescribed

* The Governor General has been pleased to accord the sanction required by section 67 (3) of the Government of India Act.

minimum illuminating capacity, and can therefore be used as substitutes for kerosene for burning in lamps. The change is necessary in order to put an end to what has become a steadily increasing loss of revenue.

2. The rates of duty on kerosene are as follows :—

		Rs.	P.
Customs import duty—
(a) Basic duty		2	0
(b) Preferential rebate		0	0
(c) Special surcharge 25 per cent of (a) plus (b)		0	0
	Total	2	0
Excise duty—
(a) Basic duty		1	6
(b) Preferential rebate		0	0
(c) Special surcharge 25 per cent of (a) plus (b)		0	6¼
	Total	1	6¼

3. For some time past large quantities of light fuel oil (light diesel oil) have been imported for use in India as illuminants. Such oil is not so used in other countries and no trade practice could be established by which it could be described as "kerosene." The latter term, though it has been defined for the purpose of the excise duty, is not so defined in the Import Tariff and therefore has to be interpreted by Customs officers in accordance with trade usage. The consequence is that the imported oil in question cannot be treated as kerosene under the Import Tariff, but where use as an illuminant can be proved, which has taken it out of the Tariff definition of fuel oil (duty 11½ per cent ad valorem), so that it becomes dutiable as "oils, other sorts" at 2½ per cent ad valorem, equivalent to about 6 pies a gallon. The application of this rate still leaves these oils with a very considerable advantage over the oils which pay duty at the "kerosene" rate with the result that the recognized kerosene oils, and particularly an inferior quality which is largely made in Burma, are being displaced to an extent which is increasing day by day to the detriment of the local industry as well as of the revenue derived from the import and excise duties on kerosene.

4. No satisfactory dividing line between illuminating and non-illuminating oils based on their physical constants or chemical properties has so far been formulated, but a standard lamp to test burning capacity has been devised. The Bill provides for giving the Government power to prescribe the pattern of lamp as the one to be used in testing imported oils for the purpose of the new tariff entry and to frame rules laying down other particulars of the tests to be applied.

1931	X	The Indian Marine (Amendment) Act, 1931	The whole.
1933	I	The Indian Marine (Amendment) Act, 1933	The whole.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is the outcome of section 96 of the Government of India Act as amended by the Government of India (Indian Navy) Act, 1927. Although the Royal Indian Marine has already been re-organised as a combatant force, it cannot be given the full status of a Navy until it has been brought under naval discipline.

2. Section 96 of the Government of India Act empowers the Indian Legislature to apply the British Naval Discipline Act to the naval forces raised by the Governor General in Council. The self governing Dominions have already applied the Act to the naval forces raised and maintained by them and India is thus in a position to apply to her naval forces the same code of discipline that in force in the British, Canadian and Australian Navies. Section 96 further empowers the Indian Legislature, in applying the Naval Discipline Act to the forces and ships raised and provided by the Governor General in Council, to make such modifications and adaptations in the Act as it may think fit in order to adapt the Act to the circumstances of India, " including such adaptations as may be so much for the purpose of authorising or requiring anything which under the said Act is to be done by or to the Admiralty or the Secretary of the Admiralty, to be done by or to the Governor General in Council or by or to such person as may be vested with the authority by the Governor General in Council. ' The Bill contains the changes in the Naval Discipline Act that appear necessary to carry out this object and renders its provisions suitable to Indian conditions It also provides for the discipline of the members of the Volunteer Reserve, at present provided for by the Indian Marine (Amendment) Act (No. I of 1933), which will be repealed with the passing of the present Bill.

SIMLA,
The 15th August 1933. G. R. F. TOTTENHAM.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 2 (b).—This will give the Indian Navy its statutory title.

Clause 3 sub-clauses (b) to (d).—These provide, wherever necessary, for the performance by the Governor General in Council or by officials of the Government of India of functions which under the English Act, are performed by the Admiralty or other departments of His Majesty's Government or by officials of the British Government ; and also for the substitution in certain places of " British India " for " the United Kingdom " or similar phrases.

Sub-clause (7).—The provision in the English Act for the performance of religious duties is unsuitable to a force composed largely of persons who are not Christians.

Sub-clauses (8) to (12) and (15) to (27).—These make the necessary verbal alterations in those portions of the English Act which deal with the administration and procedure of English criminal law, and bring them into conformity with the phraseology of the Indian Codes (Indian Penal Code and Criminal Procedure Code) ; and also substitute Indian for English currency where necessary.

Sub-clause (11).—The English Act differentiates between the powers of the Admiralty and of Admirals Commanding-in-Chief on foreign stations to impose the punishment of forfeiture of seniority. For the Indian Navy it is unnecessary to retain this differentiation and these powers are, therefore, conferred upon the Governor General in Council alone.

Sub-clause (12).—This confers on the Governor General in Council the power to modify, as may be necessary to suit Indian conditions, the general orders issued by the Admiralty from time to time regulating the procedure and practice of courts martial.

Sub-clauses (22) and (23).—These sub-clauses provide for the discipline of the Volunteer Reserve.

Sub-clause (24).—This sub-clause is complementary to section 203 of the English Act, and is a necessary addition to that Act in applying it to the Indian Navy.

Sub-clause (25).—Section 26A of the English Act contains elaborate provisions relating to the recovery of maintenance for wives and children. These provisions seem unsuited to the varied conditions of marriage law in India, where, moreover, a summary mode of obtaining maintenance already exists in Chapter 36 of the Criminal Procedure Code. Section 26A has, therefore, been omitted.

Secretary to the Government of India.
